Annual Report for 1924-25

Presented by the President to the Trustees at the Annual Meeting, November 13, 1925

To the Board of Trustees of Oberlin College:

GENTLEMEN:—As President of the College I have the honor of presenting the report of the work of the College for the academic year 1924-25—the twenty-third year of my presidency.

Death of Dr. Warner

In the death of Dr. Lucien C. Warner on July 30, last, Oberlin College lost one of the most potent and wholesome personal factors of its history. Dr. Warner was born in Cuyler, New York, October 26, 1841, and so died in his eighty-fourth year. A very considerable part of those eighty-four years—fifty-seven years in all—were spent in immediate connection with Oberlin College, either as a student or as an official. He was enrolled as a student in the preparatory department in 1860-61 and as a student in the college department in 1861-65—five years in all. He received from Oberlin his A.B. in 1865 and an A.M. in 1870. In 1873 he was made a Corresponding Member of the Alumni for the Board of Trustees, and continued in this position for five years. In 1878 the Board of Trustees of Oberlin College was reorganized with regular provision for alumni trustees, and Dr. Warner was elected among the first group of alumni trustees, and so continued until his death, a period of forty-seven years. His entire connection with the Board was thus fifty-two years, a period matched by that of only one other trustee, Dr. Michael E. Strieby, who was a full member of the Board of Trustees for fifty-four years, 1845-99. Dr. Warner was a most valuable trustee throughout the entire period of his membership in the Board, giving unstintedly of time and thought and means. His judgment was of rare soundness and his spirit magnanimous, and both qualities called out the trust and admiration of his fellow trustees and made him a natural and encouraging leader in the Board. Dr. Warner gave repeatedly and generously to Oberlin's needs. The most notable of his material gifts were the building for the Conservatory of Music, erected in 1884 and 1887 at a final expense of $100,000, and the building for the Men's Gymnasium, erected in 1901 and 1912, at a total cost of $90,000. Both buildings were greatly needed and came at a most opportune time. The College conferred upon Dr. Warner in 1900 the degree of Doctor of Laws, in fitting recognition of the services he was rendering to various Christian and philanthropic organizations.

The Trustee minute concerning Dr. Warner has been prepared by Dr. Dan F. Bradley and Dr. Henry M. Tenney, and should find place here.

On the thirtieth of July last Dr. Lucien Calvin Warner entered into that larger life for which his more than eighty-three years on earth were the prelude.

Sixty-five years ago he entered Oberlin as a student in the preparatory department. Sixty years ago he was graduated from the College with the Bachelor's Degree; was awarded the Master's Degree five years later; and in 1900 the honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws was bestowed upon him.

In 1873 he was made a Corresponding Member of the Board of Trustees, and in 1878 he was elected Trustee in the first group chosen to this position by the Alumni of the College, and through the succeeding years, with the expiration of each successive term, he has been reëlected to this position.

Thus, as a member of this Board for fifty-two years, he has served the College with peculiar distinction through the significant, formative and developing period following the administration of President Finney. His was a creative personality.

Recognizing and appropriating the high idealism of the early Oberlin, both with respect to manhood and to service, he developed and made manifest a character of poise and balance and power which compelled confidence and ensured leadership. He was clear-minded, far-sighted, earnest and steadfast in purpose, never opinionated, but considerate of the views of others, ever seeking the best things at whatever cost. To him life meant service; and the business which amassed wealth, and the wealth which multiplied opportunities, were but agencies to be used for the blessing of mankind. And the fields of activity chosen by him were the home, the family church, the school, and College, and the larger organizations of Christian fellowship and service, such as the Christian Associations for the Young, the Mission Boards of the Church, and the American Missionary Association, founded and administered through the years for the uplift and education of the colored people of the south. To Oberlin College Dr. Warner has been a most generous and intelligent patron. He has given to the College his children. The buildings of the Conservatory of Music and the Warner Gymnasium are his material monuments upon our grounds, but the Departments themselves, and the entire Institution, embody the impress of his life and character. Never himself a self-seeker, in the larger fields of Christian service few in the Congregational fellowship have been sought for leadership in positions of peculiar importance and responsibility, as was Dr. Warner, and few have more worthily served their day and generation.

The Trustees of Oberlin College speak for the entire Oberlin family,—the members of this Board, the Faculty, Alumni and Students—in expressing to Mrs. Warner, her children and grandchildren, their sense of peculiar bereavement and of personal and public loss.

Election of Members

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees, November 14, 1924, Mr. Clayton K. Fauver, Mr. Amos B. McNairy, and Mr. John L. Severance were elected to succeed themselves as members of the Board of Trustees for the full term of six years, ending January 1, 1931. Mr. Merritt Starr refused to take a reëlection, and the Trustees reluctantly accepted his decision with most grateful recognition of the unusual services rendered to the College by him during his thirty-one years of membership in the Board. Mr. Andrew H. Noah of Akron was elected to succeed Mr. Starr for the term of office ending January 1, 1926. At this meeting also the Secretary reported that the Alumni had elected as Alumni Trustee for the term ending January 1, 1931, Dr. Lucien C. Warner of New York, of the class of 1865. The Trustees whose terms regularly expire January 1, 1926, are Mr. William C. Cochran, Mr. Andrew H. Noah, Mr. George B. Siddall, and Mr. Irving W. Metcalf. Mr. Metcalf is the Alumni Trustee in this group, but he asked the Secretary to notify the Alumni that he did not wish to be renominated for another term, so that the Alumni have been voting on a successor to Mr. Metcalf and that successor will be reported at the annual meeting of the Trustees November 13. It should also be said that Dr. Warner's death occurred too late to make it possible to include a ballot for his successor in the ballot cards going to Alumni in foreign countries. The election of his successor, therefore, by the Alumni will occur next year instead of this.

Important Official Actions

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees occurred on November 14, 1924, and the semi-annual meeting on June 12, 1925. A special meeting of the Board was held at the Union Club, Cleveland, Ohio, on Wednesday, May 6, 1925, at the request of the Trustees of the Hall Estate, to consider a proposed re-organization of the Aluminum Company of America. That re-organization is still in process.

The records of the annual and semi-annual meetings as usual show the regularly recurring but important business of the Board: the appointment of the standing Trustee and Advisory Committees for the year, reported elsewhere; the consideration of the annual reports of the President, of the Treasurer, and of the Investment Committee; the review of the Prudential Committee actions of the year; the granting of degrees and diplomas according to the recommendations of the General Faculty; and the approval of the entire list of faculty changes and appointments recommended by the General Council. All these faculty changes are put on record in a later section of the report, dealing with the Faculty.

At the annual meeting the report of the Auditing Committee, based on a complete examination of all books and documents of the Treasurer's office, was presented and approved.

At the annual meeting also changes were made in two sections of the by-laws concerning the Prudential Committee and the Investment Committee, so that these sections shall read:

"Section 1. A Prudential Committee shall be chosen by the Trustees at each annual meeting, consisting of the President, the Assistant to the President, the Treasurer, the Secretary, and nine others, two of whom shall be women, to whom shall be entrusted the management of the concerns of the Board of Trustees according to the direction of the Board in the intervals when the Board is not in session. Seven members shall constitute a quorum.

"Section 3. An Investment Committee shall be appointed annually by the Trustees, which shall superintend all investments of College funds. It shall consist of nine members, viz.: The President and Treasurer of the College and seven additional members, six of whom must be Trustees and one may be a Trustee or a member of the Prudential Committee."

At the semi-annual meeting, on the recommendation of the Faculty and of the Trustee Committee on Honorary Degrees, authority was voted for conferring the following honorary degrees at the commencement exercises, June 15, 1925. The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon

Mr. Walter Thomas Dunmore, of Cleveland, Ohio, "in the eighteenth year of his service as Dean of the Law School of Western Reserve University, gifted and constantly growing scholar and teacher of the law;" and upon Mr. Merritt Starr, of Chicago, Illinois, "in recognition of his distinguished record in the law in the city of Chicago, of his notable practice in state and United States courts, of the many important opinions written by him, of his position as a leading authority on riparian rights, and of his special service in social legislation, and in gratitude for his able and devoted services to the College through his thirty-one years of membership on the Board of Trustees." The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. Roy Edwin Bowers, of Cleveland, Ohio, "able and devoted Christian pastor, spiritual seer and inspirer;" and upon Rev. Irving Maurer, "President of Beloit College, Christian educator, candid seeker after the truth, effective witness to the world of the spirit." The degree of Master of Arts was conferred upon Mrs. Cliffe Johnson Merriam, of Cleveland, Ohio, "outstanding leader in the ideal causes of a great city, distinguished public servant;" upon Mr. Grove Patterson, of Toledo, Ohio, "editor of fine spirit, solid worth, and wide influence; making journalism serve high ends;" and upon Sollis Runnels, of Indianapolis, Indiana, "honored physician and thoughtful philanthropist through many years of sympathetic labor, in the capital of a great Commonwealth."

The budget for the year 1925-26, as adopted by the Trustees at the semi-annual meeting, is presented here in brief outline:

INCOME
General . . . . .	$401,092
College of Arts and Sciences . . . . .	320,189
Graduate School of Theology . . . . .	43,016
Conservatory of Music . . . . .	178,155
	$942,452

EXPENSE

General . . . . .	$309,758
College of Arts and Sciences . . . . .	389,996
Graduate School of Theology . . . . .	54,827
Conservatory of Music . . . . .	186,538
	$941,119

It is to be noted that this budget is more than $100,000 larger than the budget of the previous year.

Important Prudential Committee Actions

A brief summary of the more important actions of the Prudential Committee between the meetings of the Trustees, not elsewhere covered in this report, finds record here as usual, because the Prudential Committee is empowered by the Trustees to act for them ad interim.

The Prudential Committee had general oversight of the practical completion of the Allen Hospital and the finishing of the first installment of the Stadium,—as appears at various points in the record.

The records show also the usual variety of repairs, alterations, and improvements carried on during the year under the approval of the Committee. The most important of these repairs were made necessary by the damage done by the storm of May 16. The Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, thus, reports extensive roof repairs on the Chapel, Art Building, Lord Cottage, Peters Hall, Men's Building, and Johnson House. Approximately two thousand dollars was expended on damaged trees.

Three houses for the use of the women have been improved. The house at 166 West Lorain street has been remodeled and equipped for use as a women's field house. The Hanna cottage at the summer camp at the lake was refinished inside and out. Repairs are still going on at 40 South Professor street, better to adapt it for use as a women's headquarters building.

The purchase of the Broadwell house back of the Chapel made it possible to clear up an unsightly spot on the college grounds.

A new elevator has been placed in the Library, and the elevator in Rice hall has been refitted throughout.

The old hot water heating system at Talcott Hall was changed to a steam system, giving a better and more economical service.

On account of the increased number of students, nearly nine thousand dollars was added to the budget for the year for additional teaching and equipment.

The Prudential Committee approved of the following recommendations of the Committee on Health and Hospitals:

First. That the health service of the College be centralized in the "Committee on Health and Hospitals" and include the operation of the hospital under a board of seven managers to be appointed by the Prudential Committee, five to represent the College and two to represent the community. Of the five members of the hospital board to represent the College, the Treasurer of the College, Mr. H. B. Thurston, the Director of the Men's Gymnasium, Dr. W. R. Morrison, and the Director of the Women's Gymnasium, Dr. Gertrude E. Moulton, were made ex-officio members; the two additional members elected by the Prudential Committee were Miss Frances G. Nash, Dean of Conservatory Women, and Professor Charles G. Rogers. The Prudential Committee elected Mr. L. E. Burgner and Mrs. A. G. Comings as the two representatives of the town of Oberlin on the board. Dr. W. R. Morrison was made chairman of the board of managers of the hospital, and is also chairman of the Committee on Health and Hospitals.

Second. (1). That a Health and Hospital Fee of five dollars each semester be charged to all students, payable with the term bills.

(2). That in return for this fee each student may receive without additional charge any dispensary service that he may need and infirmary and hospital service to the extent of ten days in the course of the year, it being understood that the fee does not cover operating room or other special service, nor the fee of the attending physician.

(3). That a college physician be employed as a general health officer to have responsibility for the dispensary service and for seeing that students receive proper care while confined in the hospital, and who will have responsibility for educating the students regarding health measures and in the prevention of disease.

With the recommendation of the General Council and the approval of the Prudential Committee, a beginning has been made in providing stenographic service to assist members of the Faculty.

DONORS

Gifts Reported by the Treasurer

It has been the usual custom of the Treasurer to report gifts in two main divisions: Gifts for Current Use, and Gifts to Capital. But because of the great interest of Alumni and friends in the progress of collections on the Endowment and Building Fund it has seemed desirable again this year to add a third division, which will include gifts to this new fund, part of which are for current use and part for endowment.

The total amount pledged up to August 31, 1925, to the Endowment and Building Fund is $3,038,886.03 from 8,536 subscribers. As will appear from the detailed list of payments shown elsewhere, there has been paid in during the year a total of $400,897.32.

Setting aside for the moment the Endowment and Building Fund, the amount of Gifts for Current Use for the year under review was $202,738.07, as against $29,747.30 for the previous year. Adding the gifts for current use included in the Endowment and Building Fund—$92,520.50—the total of Gifts for Current Use amounts to $295,258.57. The total amount of Gifts to Capital during the year under review, as reported by the Treasurer, is $86,037.98, as against $31,424.57 for the year 1923-24. Adding the gifts to Capital included in the Endowment and Building Fund—$178,365.14—the total of Gifts to Capital amounts to $264,403.12. The total money gifts for the year coming into the hands of the Treasurer therefore amount to $559,661.69, as against $526,086.26 for the previous year.

In the Gifts for Current Use (aside from the Endowment and Building Fund) the largest item is the gift coming through the Trustees of the Dudley P. Allen Fund for the construction of the hospital, amounting to $89,876.95. The next largest gift for current use is from the bequest of Mr. E. A. West of Chicago, $56,462.48, making a total received from this bequest of $59,124.51. For the construction of the stadium 660 donors gave $13,549.20. A gift of $10,000 for equipment should also find place here. The gift of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching to the College for retiring allowances amounted for the year to $15,405.97. Living Endowment Union gifts amounted to $3,068.58, all of which except $39.50 is assigned for the expense of the quinquennial catalogue. Special gifts for student aid for the year amounted to $5,109.31, including a grant from the estate of LaVerne Noyes of $1,786.68.

The graduating class of 1925 made a parting gift to the College of $300 for the mechanism of the clock in Finney Chapel.

The Gifts to Capital, to establish funds or increase old ones, as reported by the Treasurer, include a most welcome donation from the Carnegie Corporation of $50,000 for library endowment; a loan fund of $5,000 from the Trustees of the John Quincy Donnell Fund of Greensburg, Ind.; four bequests totaling $5,550; $1,286 paid in on the John Fisher Peck Scholarship; additional gifts to the Glen C. Gray memorial scholarship fund amounting to $552. Aelioian Society contributed $301 toward the Aelioian fellowship, and the L. L. S. Society $214.50 toward the L. L. S. fellowship; the Women's Auxiliary to the Hospital gave toward establishing a fund in memory of Dr. F. E. Leonard, $987.60.

Gifts subject for the present to annuities include $13,066.58 to be added to the John H. Beacom fund, and $5,444 from Mr. W. M. Beacom to be added to the M. W. Beacom fund; and $3,000 from Mrs. Eliza B. Condit.

Of the total amount of Gifts to the Endowment and Building Fund, totaling $270,885.64, $92,520.50 was designated for current use, and $178,365.14 was to be added to the endowment assets of the College, distributed as follows: for general endowment $147,995.44; for general scholarships $20,347.00; for general loan fund $4,450.00; for college endowment $799.00; for college scholarships $1,692.00; for scholarships for the Graduate School of Theology $2,250.00; and for Conservatory of Music endowment $831.70.

Gifts Reported by the Librarian

Of the 9,026 bound volumes added to the library during the year under review, the Librarian reports that 4,235, nearly one-half, came by gifts. The Librarian gratefully recognizes the indebtedness of the College to many individual donors representing the Faculty, residents of Oberlin and friends outside of Oberlin. It means very much to the College that so many of its friends should be regularly remembering the library in their gifts.

Other Gifts

During the year the following accessions have been made to the art collections:

Three pieces of Egyptian mummy cloth, the gift of Mrs. Stenger of Oberlin; three Caucasian rugs, an old mahogany desk, and a table one hundred and fifteen years old, the gifts of Judge M. W. Beacom of Cleveland; Chinese musical instrument (Ching), the gift of Mr. Cheng Yi

Wang, of Peking, China, a member of the Oberlin College class of 1926; an oriental rug, the gift of Mr. H. F. Wilbor of Erie, Pennsylvania; a collection of curiosities from Turkey, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Metcalf of Oberlin; old Greek lace, the gift of Mrs. G. F. Wright of Oberlin; "Bailey's Island," an oil painting by Frederick Judd Waugh, purchased for the Museum by the Oberlin Art Association and the department of Fine Arts of the College from Mr. George E. Gage of Cleveland.

The Zoölogical department has received from Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf a specially valuable collection of certain Protochordates (in particular Salpa and Pyrosoma); a large collection of slides used by him in his extensive researches on the protozoan Opalina; numerous other microscopic preparations, and much equipment in the line of glassware, and other desiderata.

Gifts to Shansi

It seems once more appropriate that gifts made for Oberlin's educational work in Shansi should be included at this point under gifts to the College. The total receipts for the year 1924-25 were $31,246.39. The Treasurer's report indicates that the Oberlin student body, the Faculty, Alumni and friends are continuing their support of this work. The Student Chest again contributed $5,000, the Alumni $2,879.75; other gifts and income from endowment made up a total of current income of $14,736.29.

The President desires here to acknowledge, on behalf of the Trustees and the Faculty of the College, all the gifts now reviewed, and thus publicly to express to each individual giver the earnest thanks of the College.

III

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS

Treasurer, Secretary, and Assistant to the President

The general officers of the College besides the President are the Treasurer, Secretary, and Assistant to the President, and their reports, as having to do with all departments of the College, naturally take precedence in the review of the year.

Report of the Treasurer

The report of the Treasurer falls into three large divisions: Treasurer's Statement; Treasurer's Accounts; Index of Funds. The most significant points in the Treasurer's report are contained in the Treasurer's Statement. The Statement is made to include a Statement of General Investments; Income and Expense by Departments; the Gifts of the Year; Balance Sheet, August 31, 1925, of the Assets and Liabilities of the College, showing total footings of $7,299,396.52, as against $6,896,862.93 for the previous year; Combined Statement of Income and Expense, showing the total Income for the year to be $975,740.17, as against $848,952.36 the previous year; Comparative Statement of the Endowment, Scholarship and Loan Funds, and Total Assets of the College, including Buildings, Grounds, and Equipment, from 1855 to date.

The gratifying introductory sections of the Treasurer's Statement may be given in full.

The total of funds sharing in general investments for the full year amounted to $4,262,671.00. Income from general investments was received during the year as follows:

From interest on investments.....	$211,661.61
From interest, other sources.....	15,726.49
From real estate rents.....	22,218.06
From West Virginia oil lands.....	248.63

$249,854.79

After allowing $4,973.38 to funds that were received during the year, $244,446.90 was distributed at the rate of 5½ per cent to the funds sharing in general investments, and the remainder, $10,134.51, was credited to Profit and Loss account for General Investments.

The operations for the year resulted in a net surplus of $114,784.77, as is shown by the following table:

INCOME AND EXPENSE BY DEPARTMENTS

	Income	Expense	Surplus	Deficit
General . . . . .	$328,203.43	$251,073.28	$172,416.75	$

Surplus . . . . .	$114,784.77		$114,784.77

The surplus for the year, $114,784.77, was used as follows:

- (1) To pay all accumulated deficits—

General . . . . .	$ 8,206.62
Academy . . . . .	22,331.49
College . . . . .	37,678.19

	<hr/>	43,365.09
		$114,784.77

In addition to the above advances, we have been able to charge off from income of boarding halls and dormitories the following:

Fairchild House .....	$ 4,225.53
Johnson House (part) .....	1,000.00
Keep Cottage (part).....	4,111.18
Lord Cottage .....	3,307.81
Men's Building (part).....	2,378.02
Shurtleff Cottage .....	4,286.09
		$ 19,308.63

During the year the Intercollegiate Athletics Account has reduced the advances to the Athletic Field by the payment of $14,380.36, leaving a balance of $2,300.00.

The cost of the Hospital site, $7,197.40, was charged to gifts received through the Endowment and Building Fund for the Hospital.

The total of these items which have been heretofore carried in our accounts as debts or advances amounts to $155,671.16.

The account, Profit and Loss for General Investments, showed a credit balance at the beginning of the year of $1,285.95. Securities have been sold and losses have been charged off to the extent of $55,993.75. Profits on other transactions have amounted to $25,669.42. The undivided income from General Investments, $10,434.51, has been credited to this account. At the end of the year the balance shows losses not provided for amounting to $18,603.87.

The Gifts of the Year have already been fully considered in the section dealing with Donors.

The Treasurer naturally concludes his annual statement with a Comparative Statement of Classified Assets. This is a statement of the endowment, scholarship and loan funds, and total assets of the College, including buildings, grounds, and equipment. The total endowment funds of the College, including neither funds carrying annuities nor scholarship and loan funds, are shown to be $3,052,946.27,—a gain of $178,279.14 over the preceding year. The scholarship and loan funds now amount to $546,822.23,—a gain over last year of $62,972.42. When the scholarship and loan funds are added to the endowment funds strictly construed, the total present endowment of the College in the sense in which the term is ordinarily used, is $3,599,768.50,—a gain over the preceding year of $241,251.56. This is the first time that the books of the College have shown scholarship and loan funds in excess of a half million dollars. It is necessary to say again that the total endowment assets so shown, however, do not accurately indicate the total endowment of the College, for there is held by the Cleveland Trust Company as trustees further endowment for the benefit of Oberlin College amounting to $150,000.00. This would make the total endowment of the College, exclusive of the Hall bequests, $3,749,768.50. The Treasurer estimates the value of lands, buildings and equipment used for college purposes at $2,703,886.79. This, less the amount ($294,559.94) included in "items counted as investment of assets," makes the entire property of the College, as tabulated in the Treasurer's summary statement, $7,299,396.52. If, however, the Allen bequests held by the Cleveland Trust Company, amounting to $150,000.00, already mentioned, are included, as they should be for a true view of the resources of the College, the total assets would make an aggregate of $7,449,396.52, exclusive of the Hall bequest.

The College received during the year under review as income from its residuary interest in the estate of Mr. Charles M. Hall $223,000, as over against an income of $190,000 the previous year. This gratifying increase of income from this source has greatly helped in enabling the College to cut down its accumulated deficits and advances, as already shown.

Report of the Secretary

The report of the Secretary falls as usual into two main divisions: Publications; and Office Work, Records, and Statistics.

The only addition to the usual list of publications was that of a News Letter, issued April 20, 1925. An edition of 20,000 was sent out and seemed to be much appreciated by Alumni and former students. It is the plan of the College to issue two News Letters during the year 1925-26, one in December and the other about Commencement time. The Secretary believes that the News Letter service ought to be continued indefinitely as a means of contact with Alumni and former students.

The Student Directory gets increasingly valuable and indispensable.

The Annual Report for the year 1923-24 was again printed in abridged form, containing only the reports of the President and the Treasurer. An edition of 9,000 was issued under date of December 1, 1924. The size of the edition was increased in order that a copy might be sent to each contributor to the endowment and building fund of 1923.

The necrological record is no longer printed with the Annual Report, but appears in a special bulletin to be sent out to all the Alumni sometime during the month of December or January. The necrology covers the year from October 1, 1924, to October 1, 1925.

The College calendar has continued its valuable service as a tie between the College and its friends; the calendar for 1924-25 was issued in an edition of 6,500.

The beautiful illustrated pamphlet, issued in 1923 as a part of the publicity program for the endowment and building campaign, was reprinted in 1924 for advertising purposes. A sufficient number of copies was printed to supply the needs of the College for three years. We have used this pamphlet throughout the entire year 1924-25 with great satisfaction.

The Secretary calls attention to the fact that the budget for 1925-26, adopted by the Trustees at the semi-annual meeting on June 12, contained a provision for the printing of a quinquennial catalogue, to follow the same general lines as the catalogue of 1916. The estimated cost of the new quinquennial is $7,000, but it is very greatly needed. The expense is to be met from the income of the Living Endowment Union, including a balance of $600 from the year 1923-24, the amount contributed during the year 1924-25—slightly more than $3,000; and the estimated income for the year 1925-26 of $3,300. The remainder is to be a direct charge against the budget for 1925-26. It seemed to the Prudential Committee and to the Trustees that the use of Living Endowment funds, contributed by the Alumni of the College, for the publication of the Alumni catalogue, was a peculiarly appropriate use to make of the money.

As one of his official duties as Secretary, Mr. Jones records the vote for Alumni Trustee:

The term of office of Mr. Irving W. Metcalf as a member of the Board of Trustees will expire on December 31, 1925. In accordance with the By-laws of the College the usual preliminary ballot was distributed May 1, 1925 (April 1 for Alumni living beyond the borders of the United States), inviting nominations for a successor. The retiring trustee, Mr. Metcalf, declined renomination and the fact of his wish that he be not renominated was contained in the preliminary announcements that were sent out. The nominating ballot was canvassed on the first day of July, 1925, showing the nomination of the following candidates:

- Rev. Ernest Bourner Allen, of the class of 1903
- Professor Maynard Mayo Metcalf, of the class of 1889
- Mrs. Mary Plumb Millikan, of the class of 1893
- Dr. Robert Andrews Millikan, of the class of 1891
- Mr. Grove Patterson, of the class of 1905.

The result of the final ballot for 1925, that will close October 31, 1925, will be reported to the Trustees at the annual meeting, November 13.

The statistics of the Secretary show that the aggregate of degrees and diplomas issued by the College during the year 1924-25 was 352 (the largest in the history of the College) as against 325 the preceding year. Included in the 352 there were 52 duplicates; that is, 52 were issued to men and women who were already on the college rolls. Making this deduction, the net addition during the year to the total number of individual graduates of the institution was 300, as against 287 the preceding year. The total number of degrees and diplomas that have been issued by Oberlin College since its founding is now 10,373. The total number of individual graduates from the different departments of the College since its foundation is now 8,618,—4,000 men and 4,618 women. The living Alumni at date of October 1, 1925, numbered 6,632, as shown in the following table:

	Men	Women	Total
Graduates of the College of Arts and Sciences.	2,369	3,673	6,042
Graduates of the Graduate School of Theology..	508	5	513
Graduates of the Conservatory of Music.....	112	400	512
Recipients of Master's Degrees.....	317	177	494
Graduates of the Slavic Course.....	23	0	23
Recipients of Honorary Degrees.....	116	28	144
	3,445	4,283	7,728
Deduct for names counted twice.....	603	493	1,096
Net total .....	2,842	3,790	6,632

The number of new students for the year 1924-25 was 713, as against 638 the preceding year. This makes the aggregate of all students who have been in attendance in any department since the founding of the College, correct to date of June 15, 1925, 47,697. It includes the relatively small number of recipients of honorary degrees not otherwise enrolled. The above total of 47,697 is divided as follows: graduates, 8,618; non-graduates, 39,079.

The Secretary reports upon what has come to be an interesting feature of the Commencement days—the competition for the Commencement Reunion Cup.

The competition for the Commencement Reunion Cup resulted in the awarding of the cup to the Class of 1875, celebrating its fiftieth anniversary. The Class of 1924, celebrating its first anniversary was second; the Class of 1885, celebrating its fortieth anniversary was third; the Class of 1915, celebrating its tenth anniversary was fourth. Previous awards of the Alumni Reunion Cup have been as follows: in 1920, the fiftieth anniversary class (1870); in 1921, the fiftieth anniversary class (1871); in 1922, the thirtieth anniversary class (1892); in 1923, the twenty-fifth anniversary class (1898); and in 1924, the fiftieth anniversary class (1874). The award of the cup is made at the Alumni dinner to the reunion class returning the largest percentage of living members, with the provision that the first class winning the cup three times shall become its owner.

The total of students in all departments for the year 1924-25 was 1,868, as against 1,773 the preceding year, and 1,801 the year before that. This number excludes entirely all so-called "unclassified students," and is wholly of students of college or graduate rank. The attendance in the College of Arts and Sciences was 1,324, as against 1,240 the preceding year, and 1,262 the year before that. The attendance in the Conservatory of Music was 423, as against 404 the preceding year and the year before that. The enrolment in the Graduate School of Theology was 41, the same as the year previous. The totals shown in the Secretary's statement represent the attendance for the year; that is, any student who was in attendance for any part of the year has been counted in the totals. It is perhaps of more significance to note the average attendance semester by semester. In the College of Arts and Sciences the average attendance was 1,270. The similar figure for 1923-24 was 1,184; for 1922-23 it was 1,202; for 1921-22 it was 1,186; for 1920-21 it was 1,122. The enrolment in the Conservatory of Music for the first semester was 416, for the second semester 385, and the average enrolment was 401. The corresponding figure for the preceding year was 371. In the entire institution the total first semester enrolment was 1,735, the second semester enrolment 1,685, the average being 1,710. The corresponding average for the preceding year was 1,598.

The Secretary presents the usual statistics concerning the proportion of men and women both in the entire institution and in the College of Arts and Sciences. The total number of men enrolled in all departments of the institution during the year 1924-25 was 751, an increase of 86 over the preceding year. This is the largest enrolment of men that has been reported since the discontinuance of the Academy. In only one preceding year has the total been exceeded. In the year 1910-11 the total was 765.

More significant than the total enrolment is the percentage of men. The increase was from 37.51 per cent in 1923-24 to 40.20 per cent in 1924-25. The percentage is higher than in any year for 27 years. In 1897-98 the percentage was 42.36.

The number of men enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences for 1924-25 was much larger than for any other year in the history of the College. In comparison with the preceding year there was a gain of 81.

The percentage of men is also the largest for many years, having increased during the year from 47.13 to 48.5. The percentage is the largest for 23 years. In 1901-02 the percentage was 48.5. This gain in the percentage of men in the College of Arts and Sciences is the result of the persistent policy of the College to make the number of men and women in the College department as nearly equal as possible. It is a pleasure to report that the gains of the last three or four years are being maintained for the year 1925-26, and that the first semester enrolment of men shows a gain of 31 as compared with the enrolment of a year ago.

The Secretary includes his usual figures for the first semester of the current year corrected to October 20, 1925, with corresponding figures for 1923-24 and 1924-25:

	October 23, 1923			October 20, 1924			October 20, 1925

Totals .....	601	1020	1621	690	1045	1735	717	1013	1730

It will be seen that the increase in the enrolment in the College of Arts and Sciences has been maintained even though the admissions to the Freshman class are 31 less than in the preceding year. The gain in enrolment in the College of Arts and Sciences is entirely in men; the number of women in the College is the same as in the preceding year. A gratifying increase is seen in the Graduate School of Theology. There is a decrease of 38 students in the enrolment of the Conservatory of Music. The new plan of the Conservatory, by which students in certain lines of study and under certain conditions must take thirty minute lessons instead of twenty minute lessons, either required a greatly increased teaching force or a considerably reduced body of students. The situation in the Conservatory shows that while the number of students has been somewhat decreased, the amount of work to be done by the Conservatory Faculty has been increased and some additions to that Faculty have already been authorized.

Special attention should be directed to the gain of 100 men in the College of Arts and Sciences in the two-year period from October, 1923, to October, 1925. The Committee would probably have been willing to continue its policy of accepting additional numbers of Freshman men, if desirable candidates had applied for admission.

The procedure of last year, in accepting 210 Freshman men, has resulted for the present year in a very fine proportion of men and women in the Sophomore class, 187 men and 179 women. It happened, however, that the additional numbers of Freshman rank did not apply for admission in 1925, and the Freshman registration figures show fairly close adherence to the mark originally set by the Committee on Admission, 180 men and 180 women.

In dealing with these comparative statistics concerning the enrolment, through a period of years, it should be once more emphasized that with our settled policy of limitation of numbers the comparison of numbers of students in attendance loses, of course, most of its significance. For we are not trying to excel our previous record of numbers or to surpass some other college in such a record, but simply to undertake our fair share of educational responsibility for those in the nation who are seeking a college education, and to do the best quality of work we can for those admitted. But we are interested, for the sake of both men and women, in making approximately equal the number of men and the number of women.

In the enrolment of the institution the Secretary's figures still show the usual large percentage of students from outside the State of Ohio. Of the 1,868 students enrolled last year, 1,788 came from 50 states and territories of the United States; 80 came from 14 foreign countries. The State of Ohio furnished 893 students, as against 844 the preceding year. The seven states that sent the largest number of students were, in order; Ohio, 893; Pennsylvania, 170; New York, 97; Michigan, 96; Illinois, 94; Indiana, 64; and Massachusetts, 34. Pennsylvania continues to rank second and New York third, but Michigan has now passed Illinois as the fourth state. For many years prior to 1907 the number of Oberlin students enrolled from the State of Ohio was almost exactly 50 per cent of the total. During some of the years the percentage was slightly below 50, during others it rose slightly above the mark. Between 1907 and 1910 the Ohio percentage dropped from 50 to 45. For 16 years, beginning with the year 1909-10, the percentage of Ohio students has not varied much from the 45 per cent mark. The percentage for the year 1924-25 was 47.81, being the largest of any year for 17 years.

The Secretary's figures concerning officers of instruction and administration for the year 1924-25 show in the combined departments of the College an active teaching staff of 122 (2 more than the preceding year); an administrative staff of 30 (2 less than last year); and a library staff of 19 (2 more than the preceding year); a total of 171 (2 more than the preceding year). Of the teaching staff of 122, 56 were of the rank of Professor (3 more than the preceding year), 9 of the rank of associate professor (3 less than the preceding year), 30 of the rank of assistant professor (6 more than last year), 20 of the rank of instructor, 6 assistants and one special lecturer. Of the entire active staff of 171, 89 are credited to the College of Arts and Sciences, 8 to the Graduate School of Theology, 39 to the Conservatory of Music, and 35 are counted "General," including administrative officers and assistants and Librarian and library assistants.

Report of the Assistant to the President

The report of the Assistant to the President calls especial attention to the significance of certain new gifts and pledges which have come in during the year.

New Gifts and Pledges

The record of the year's gifts is especially gratifying when one takes into account that this is only the second year after the great intensive campaign of the College, in which the attempt was made to secure the coöperation of the entire constituency of the institution, and in which approximately 8,600 persons had a share, pledging, up to the present time, over three million dollars.

The largest single gift of the year was from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, $50,000.00, to be used as additional endowment for the Library, the condition being made that the income from this fund should be used to extend the service of the Library, not to relieve the general budget.

The entire equipment of the Allen Hospital has been provided for, during this year, by the proposed gift, already paid in, by the family of the late Miss Myrtle Grace Vial, of the class of 1908. The amount of this gift is not to be made public, by the request of the donors, but it may be said that it constitutes one of the most important contributions of the year. It would be very difficult to exaggerate the significance and helpfulness of this gift in connection with the opening of the new hospital building and the inauguration of the new health program of the College.

Under the provisions made by Professor A. T. Swing and Mrs. Swing, in planning the Mead-Swing Foundation, the fund came into the direct control of the College upon Dr. Swing's death, and special mention of the Foundation should be made in this report. The fund is to be kept intact until it amounts to $30,000.00, but Dr. Swing felt confident that it would be fully available in the Fall of 1926. The Fund will begin at that time to render the important service the College has so long felt the need of, in bringing to Oberlin outstanding preachers and scientists of note to address the student body and citizens of Oberlin.

The Intercollegiate Athletic Association under the leadership of Secretary Jones and with the coöperation of Professor Savage, was successful in raising the money, during the year under review, for the first unit of the Athletic Stadium, the West Stand, seating approximately 3,000 persons. 1,740 seats were subscribed for, which, together with other funds assured by the Intercollegiate Association and certain alumni in Cleveland, guarantees the total cost of $35,000.00 of this initial unit.

The Assistant to the President also calls attention to the very gratifying increase in scholarship and loan funds, and to the growth of the campaign totals. Emphasis is laid upon the great value of increasing the number of wills and annuities.

It is well to call attention in connection with this report to the fact that, from information coming to the College, it is reasonably certain that the institution is being written into Wills to an increasing extent through the years. There is also a growing degree of interest in the conditional gift subject to an annuity, which the College is glad to accept. While these gifts subject to an annual income during the annuitant's life do not immediately help the College, they do afford a means of making certain during one's lifetime that the ultimate disposition of a given amount of money shall be in accordance with the donor's wishes, while the income is still available during life to the donor of the proposed gift. There is a large service which the friends of the College—lawyers, ministers, physicians, and trust officers in banks—may render to the institution by having in mind the needs of the College when they are consulted in regard to Wills and Annuities.

The latter part of the report of the Assistant to the President, on Oberlin's most pressing need, deserves the special attention of the Alumni and friends of the College, and this part of the report may fitly be presented entire.

Oberlin's Most Pressing Need: Buildings

As a result of the funds received through the Campaign as they have come into the possession of the College, and because of the increased income from the Hall estate, the College is in the best condition financially, so far as its current budget is concerned, that it has been in its entire history. It should be possible, within the next five years, greatly to strengthen the institution at those places where its work is weakest at the present time, and in those departments most severely affected by recent drastic economies. The growth of the College has also made a heavy draft upon its resources and the College will be in position better to meet its growing needs than ever before.

There remains, however, the very important problem of the building program, which has scarcely been entered upon by the institution. It is a matter of no small importance that there should be dedicated this year a college Hospital costing, with its equipment, approximately $200,000.00, and the first unit of the Stadium, costing approximately $35,000.00. There remains, however, the necessity of providing, at the earliest possible moment, for a number of exceedingly important buildings.

It may be well to remind the friends of the College that, under the conditions of Mr. Hall's will, Spear Laboratory must be moved off the campus or torn down by 1929, and French Hall, also. This, with the present overcrowded situation throughout the institution, makes the building of one or two units of our recitation quadrangle quite imperative. The College is under moral obligation, also, to keep faith with the State authorities who have accepted the statement of the institution that definite steps would be taken to replace Council Hall, now under condemnation for educational purposes.

The general situation as regards the attendance of men at Oberlin College would seem to emphasize the importance of providing additional dormitories for men at the earliest possible moment if we are at all adequately to meet the situation which faces us in the living and social conditions of the men of the institution. Nothing has been done in recent years to provide more adequate equipment for the Women's Gymnasium. The facilities which are now provided in the temporary wooden building and its adjacent rooms cannot be considered adequate in any sense whatsoever for the physical needs of the twelve hundred women under the care of the College, and either in connection with the Gymnasium or in a separate Women's Building, reasonable facilities should be afforded the young women of the institution somewhat, at least, in comparison to those furnished by the Men's Building for the men of the College.

Statements of like import might be made concerning the addition to the Library; the insistent urgency that an organ department building should be erected; the need of a Physics building; and housing for various other scientific departments now taken care of in only temporary fashion, some of them in frame buildings under fire risk which the College can hardly be justified in allowing to continue for very many years.

The fact to be had in mind by the Trustees and friends of Oberlin surely is that funds must needs be provided for this building program at a much earlier date than these needs could possibly be met if the College should depend upon the amount of surplus which could be saved out of the current budget from year to year, even with its augmented income, from both the campaign funds and the Hall estate. Facing this situation most optimistically, it would probably take at least twenty years to erect these needed buildings in that fashion.

To recapitulate, the most pressing building needs are:

Recitation building .....	$ 500,000 to	$1,500,000
Halls of residence for men.....	600,000 to	600,000
Halls of residence for women...	600,000 to	600,000
Organ Building .....	100,000 to	100,000
Addition to the Library.....	250,000 to	250,000
Theological Group .....	300,000 to	300,000
Physics Building .....	400,000 to	400,000
Other science buildings.....	1,000,000 to	1,000,000
Women's Gymnasium .....	400,000 to	400,000
Men's Gymnasium and Pool...	500,000 to	500,000
Women's Building .....	200,000 to	200,000
College Inn, including alumni rooms and Faculty Club.....	250,000 to	250,000
	$5,100,000 to	$6,100,000

It is therefore hoped that those who have the welfare of Oberlin at heart may give serious thought to its pressing building needs.

Continuing Values from the Campaign

As a result of a careful study of the results of the recent financial campaign, the Assistant to the President is inclined to state that, in his judgment, the College has yet to reap a very large increment of values from that campaign, both direct and indirect. It is probably true to say that the College has never had as large a constituency of interested friends financially able to help the College, as at the present time. Many of these people are just beginning to give evidence of their developing interest in the work of the College, and may normally be expected to give more largely in the years to come. The high type of publicity which the College received during the campaign is bearing fruit, and Oberlin is probably more widely and better known than ever before in its history. These facts should be taken into account, as well as the tangible results of the campaign as they are reported through the Treasurer's Office.

Heads of Departments and Associated Officers

The work of the administration of the College includes not only that of the general administrative officers now reviewed, but also that of the Heads of Departments and of officers associated with them: the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, with the Dean of College Men, the Dean of College Women, the Registrar, and the Chairman of the Committee on Admission; the Dean of the Graduate School of Theology; the Director of the Conservatory of Music, with the Dean of Conservatory Women; the Librarian; and the other general officers of the College—the Director of the Men's Gymnasium, the Director of Athletics, the Director of the Women's Gymnasium, the Chairman of the Hospital Board, the College Physician, the Director of Recreation, the Secretary of the Bureau of Appointments, the Director of the Summer Session, and the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. The erection of the hospital and the appointment of a College Physician add two significant general officers to the list as hitherto given: the Chairman of the Hospital Board and the College Physician.

The College of Arts and Sciences

The report of the College of Arts and Sciences, the central and largest department of the College, is presented practically in full. The major part, including the summary of Faculty Actions and of the Reports of the Faculty, has been written by Professor Charles G. Rogers, who was Acting Dean for the year under review. The remainder, comprising the sections on Instruction, Attendance and Scholarship, and Needs, has been written by Dean Cole. The report of Professor Rogers comes first.

My annual report to you must this year take a somewhat different form from that in which it is usually presented. Because of Dean Cole's absence upon leave I was asked to act as his substitute for the year and so was unable to give to my teaching the same attention I had been accustomed to give. My work in Human Physiology and the laboratory work in the Comparative Physiology was carried by Miss Blanche Lindsay. This relief from departmental obligations made it possible for me to give more time to the work of the Dean's office.

In order that that I might have the benefit of Dean Cole's experience and advice in regard to the work of the Dean's office, I returned to Oberlin from Woods Hole about the 20th of August, from which time I worked with him until

I assumed full direction of the office affairs, about one week before the opening of college in the fall. Dean Cole very kindly gave me information which proved to be of very great assistance throughout the year. He also assisted in some of the detailed work incident to the very crowded registration days at the beginning of the semester.

The work of the year proved to be very interesting. I desire here to express my appreciation of the honor which was conferred upon me in the making of this temporary appointment, and also my appreciation of the very cordial cooperation of all the other administrative officers with whom it was my pleasure to work, and the very cordial and harmonious relations with all the members of the faculty with whom it was my privilege from time to time to consult. In this connection I must refer to the invaluable assistance of Miss Nickerson, without whose intimate knowledge of office routine and whose timely suggestions the work of the year would have been much more difficult.

It was a pleasure, also, for me to be able to consult with the students as to their scholastic problems, and while the advice given may have fallen short of what might have been given by a more experienced person, I was enabled to get some insight as to the need of such advice and some idea of what might be accomplished if the advisor had more time to give to such work—and less interruption because of other duties. The experience of the year leads me to suggest that it is too much to expect that the scholarship of more than twelve hundred students can properly be supervised by one person. It certainly cannot be done by one person when a large part of that person's time and interest is of necessity diverted along other lines. As this work of supervising is done at the present time only those who are in danger of failing in their work come before the Dean. It must be true that many other students would be wonderfully helped in their work if they had the privilege—or the obligation—to consult a special administrative officer in regard to scholarship matters. My own feeling is that we need not one, but several deans or assistant deans, to give to the scholarship side of our student life the attention it deserves. It might be possible to modify our present advisory system, perhaps, in such a way as to meet this need. I do not care to offer this suggestion for more than a possibility, but we might possibly do worse than to interest a number of the members of the faculty in the general scholarship interests of the students who come to them for advice in regard to other matters. Of course, if we were to enlarge the scope of the work of the advisors as this suggestion contemplates, it would be necessary to reduce by some amount the teaching duties of the individual instructors so as to make it possible for them to keep in close touch with the students assigned to them for guidance. This scheme is already in operation in some other institutions, and is meeting with an encouraging degree of success.

The Faculty

The personnel of the faculty was modified to about the usual degree by leaves of absences and the introduction of new teachers. Those absent on leave were Dean Cole, Professor Moore, Professor Ward (one semester), Associate Professor Nichols, Assistant Professor Thornton, and Assistant Professor Cole. Those who returned to the service of the college after leave of absence were Professor Lord, Professor Budington, and Miss Joy. Among those who severed their connection with the institution at the end of the year may be mentioned Miss Edna H. Shaver, Assistant Professor of Chemistry, and William Leonard Hughes, Acting Assistant Professor of Physical Education. Several other appointments for one year only ended with the college year.

This account would be incomplete without a mention of the retirement as Professor Emeritus of Charles Beebe Martin, after forty-five years of service. Professor Martin has during all these years given to the institution a consecrated service. He has placed all his talents at the disposal of the college and has given without stint of time and effort, even when the rewards of service were wholly inadequate. He carries with him, as he leaves his active teaching, the sincere respect, admiration, and affection of his colleagues.

In connection with a discussion of faculty matters it should be pointed out that we have at various times met with difficulty in holding in our Oberlin Faculty men whom we wished to retain, and we have not at all times been in position to induce to come here men whom we wished to secure. We must accept the idea that buildings and equipment alone do not suffice. We must be in a position to command the services of as able men as are to be found in the educational world. To this end it seems to the writer that an early examination of the salary scale with a view to advances in salaries which would put us on an even footing with the colleges with which we claim to be classed is desirable and necessary.

On account of the very large number of students in the entering class it was found necessary to organize new sections of English Composition, Freshman Mathematics, French, and to provide for additional teaching at these points. A matter of great importance and of general satisfaction was the fact that the improved financial condition of the College made it possible to provide in the different departments for the purchase of needed supplies and equipment, and for promotions long deserved and as long deferred. During the year constant attention was given to planning for better instruction, reduction in size of classes, and for some expansion in departments which have heretofore been hampered in their work because of lack of funds.

Faculty Actions

The work of the College Faculty during the past year was limited practically to routine matters. Questions of general policy were deferred largely because of Dean Cole's absence, till the following year. One item of rather special importance to the College was the adoption on the 14th of April of a plan suggested by the Committee on Scientific Research. This plan provides for the appointment of a limited number of research instructorships, a beginning to be made on the plan at such time as the Council deems it financially possible to do so. These instructors would be men who have recently received their Ph.D. degrees, or who have its equivalent in training. It would be expected that they would teach for about one-third of their time, and would carry on research work in coöperation with properly qualified members of the Faculty during the rest of the time.

Reports of the Faculty

The members of the Faculty very generally acknowledge with grateful appreciation the fact that the College has been able during the past year to put into effect a system of stenographic service, and also was able to make long deferred additions to the equipment of various departments. Much still remains to be done along these lines to bring all departments up to the proper standard of efficiency.

Departmental Organization and Condition

Animal Ecology. The work of the year was much the same as in preceding years. The summer trip, however, was obliged to take in a somewhat different field from that previously investigated. Professor Jones was assisted in his work by his son, George Tallman Jones, who had charge of most of the teaching. Professor Jones is thoroughly convinced of the value of the field courses to the students because of the concrete evidence which they obtain as to the adaptation of living things to their surroundings and because they see something of the problems that confront our national citizenry.

Chemistry. Professor Holmes calls attention to the fact that the year 1924-25 provided the largest number of students in Chemistry in the history of the department. There is a decided reduction in the number of students in the course in General Chemistry for the year 1925-26. This is possibly due to lack of announcement as to who was expected to be in charge of the course. Professor Holmes commends the excellent work of Dr. Wilmot V. Metcalf, who assisted in the chemical laboratory for one semester, and also the work of Mr. Niederhauser and Mr. Williams. Professor Holmes refers with appreciation to the fact that Dr. Maxson, a graduate of Yale, and for many years professor at the University of Kentucky, visited the department and worked with him upon researches in Colloidal Chemistry. Mr. R. W. Sullivan held the Grasselli Fellowship and did research work of a remarkable character. He also comments on the fact that numerous students have been placed in excellent positions and that Oberlin graduates are making excellent records in Chicago, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Michigan, Wisconsin, California, and Illinois. The return of Professor Lothrop makes a very significant addition to the staff of the department. Miss Shaver deserves high praise for her work. Mr. Holmes calls attention to the fact that the Grasselli Fellowship is now being offered for the fifth year, and expresses his appreciation of the continued interest of the Grasselli Chemical Company. He also refers in a similar vein to the continued support by Mr. Seabury Mastick of lectures in the department.

Classics. Professor Alexander refers to the return of Professor Lord after his leave of absence and to the absence of Dean Cole, whose teaching was very much missed. Professor Lord mentions with approval the work of Miss Holloway, who was added to the department as a half-time instructor. The Honors work for Juniors has been assigned to Professor Alexander. It is noted that interest in Greek is steadily increasing, and that there are now over fifty taking the work in beginning Greek.

Education. Professor Miller reports that for the first time the department has had the full time of two teachers. He comments with favor upon the work of Professor Larson, and says that the High School Superintendent and Principal are much more sympathetic with the present plan of handling supervised teaching than they have been with any previous arrangement. Mr. Miller plans to increase the teaching hours for Practice Teaching to seventy-two, in order to meet the requirements of the State Department of Education. When this is done the college credit for this work should be increased to three hours. In this connection it may be stated that other members of the Faculty are raising the question as to whether the state requirements in Education should be fulfilled as at present in the undergraduate school, or should be made a matter of graduate training. This raises the whole question of the relation of professional training to the undergraduate school. At present the situation is bad. Students are barred (much to their dissatisfaction) from taking in their junior and senior years advanced courses which they ardently desire and which they must set aside because of the weight of the educational requirement. The dissatisfaction of the students has been particularly marked during the past two registrations.

Professor Miller hopes to have three men in the department of Education after this year. One of these will give his whole time to supervised teaching. The work of the other teachers is thoroughly outlined in Mr. Miller's mind and would certainly add much to the strength of the department if it could be put into force. Professor Larson reports increased facilities for the directed teaching. During the past year thirty students took the work, twenty-four in the High School and six in special sub-freshman classes at the College. This year the number of student teachers is somewhat increased and the work in progressing satisfactorily.

Fine Arts. Professor Ward reports that the number of students in the department was materially increased in spite of the fact that three courses were not given during the first semester. During the year many additions were made to the library and to the collections of slides and photographs. The most important change in the department arises through the retirement of Professor Martin and the resignation of Mrs. Wright. The reorganization of the department is not yet fully complete. Through an understanding with the department of Classics, Professor Lord is giving one of the courses in Ancient Art. In consultation with him it is hoped that another man may be found who will devote a part of his time to Classics and part to Ancient Art. In addition to this Professor Ward is looking for a man to give full time to courses in post-Christian Art and other necessary teaching in the department. To tide over the present year some conference work is being done by Miss Alice M. Johnson and Miss Laurine Mack. In the place of Mrs. Wright, Miss Laurine Mack is acting as Curator, giving part time to this work and part time to graduate study. It is hoped by this plan to give to graduate students an opportunity for practical museum work. Professor Ward urges the appointment of another graduate assistant in the coming year, so that there would be at all times one graduate assistant with some experience in the department who would be able to give special attention in connection with the books, photographs, and lantern slides. Miss Schaufler refers with appreciation to the improvement made in the painting studio through the placing of new windows.

French. The work of all members of the department was heavy during the past year, Professor Jameson carrying fourteen hours of the teaching throughout the year. Two courses were dropped at the middle of the year because of the overload. Mr. Jameson refers to the success of a special reading course which was organized for the benefit of students who wished to do reading in various fields not directly connected with the study of French literature. The results were very encouraging, as the students seemed to take pleasure in doing this work very cheerfully. This work is being continued.

Geology. Professor Hubbard reports very heavy work in the department during the past year, in part due to an increase in the number of students during the preceding year by about fifty per cent, and also due to his giving a course in Mineralogy. By action of the Science Division and of the Committee on Course Geology 1, 2, when taken with the laboratory work, may now be counted to meet the science requirement. This change seems likely to lead to a tax upon the laboratory space of the department. Two courses which had been given alternately are now given each year. Professor Hubbard reports that the summer work in Virginia, with a class of nine students, proved to be very satisfactory. He also commends highly the work of Miss Hosie as instructor in the department during the past year.

German. Professor Aron reports larger classes than are conducive to best results. The need for an additional teacher has been met by the appointment of Mr. Downs. During the past year the students showed great interest in the work of the German Club through their voluntary attendance upon the meetings..

History. Professor Moore was absent during the year upon leave of absence. Professor King was acting head of the department, and Professor Artz was secured to teach in the department. Both Professor Moore and Professor King refer with high appreciation to the work of Professor Artz and feel that the College is to be congratulated upon being able to retain him during this present year.

Mathematics. Professor Cairns reports that it was necessary during the past year to organize an extra section each in Freshman Mathematics and in Advanced Algebra. It is evident that a considerable number of students, enough to avoid these extra sections, are too poor in scholarship to make it wise to admit them to Oberlin College, and he raises the question as to whether the lines for admission should not be more strictly drawn. Mr. Cairns records with gratification the promotions of Miss Sinclair, Mr. Carr, and Mr. Yeaton, and the leave of absence which was granted to Miss Sinclair. To help in the work of the department during this year Mr. Fox was secured. Professor Carr reports that the registrations for Astronomy are much larger than are warranted by our present equipment. He presents requests, referred to in another place, for additional equipment.

Philosophy. Professor MacLennan comments on the excessive amount of classroom work in the department for the number of teachers employed. The course in Elementary Philosophy is now given in nine sections, averaging over thirty each. The increased interest in the offerings of the department is placing a heavy burden upon all members of the staff. The department is sending a goodly number of students into graduate work and these are giving a good account of themselves at the University of Chicago, Bryn Mawr, Cornell University, and elsewhere.

Physics. Professor Taylor reports modifications of the curriculum in the Physics department, involving the dropping of Physics 3, 4. Additions have been provided for equipment for the second and third-year work. The dropping of course 3, 4 has been accomplished without loss, since the laboratory work of this course has been largely transferred to course 1, 2. This made necessary the dropping of some of the original work of the elementary course, which appeared to be of a lower standard than a college Physics courses should be. Some of the apparatus of the elementary course was retained and some was discarded as being unsuitable for any except makeshift conditions.

Political Science. Professor Geiser speaks in warmest terms of the action of the Council in securing Professor Jaszi as a teacher in the department, and believes that he should be retained at the maximum salary of the full professor. There is no question that the local interest in Political Science has been increasing remarkably during the recent years, and the time is undoubtedly near when further assistance in the department will be needed.

Psychology. Professor Stetson reports that the department of Psychology faces the problem of keeping the numbers in the elementary sections in Psychology within reason with the present teaching force. At present there are eight sections of this class, which are overloaded. This year sophomores have been refused places in these sections. The demand for this work is bound to increase next year. The schedules of the teachers are kept to a normal number of hours only by unsatisfactory expedients. The course in Psychology of Religion was withdrawn this year, although requests were made for it, and the course in Psychology of Education has for the present been fused with the course in Genetic Psychology. Mr. Stetson believes that the time has come when the requirement of Psychology should be reconsidered. The material to be covered in the course has grown more and more difficult, but the course is still limited to three hours for one semester, less than half the time assigned to any other fundamental science. If the course were not required the department would immediately follow the recommendation of the American Psychological Association and make the course at least six hours. There should be some relief. If it is not desirable to increase the amount of required work, then the work in Psychology should be an alternative requirement, or the requirement abandoned. Professor Simley calls attention also to the great interest in research problems in Psychology on the part of advanced students in the department.

Public Speaking. Professor Harbison notes an increase in the work of the department of 100 per cent over the preceding year. In Debate Oberlin won six decisions out of ten, and made a fair record in the intercollegiate contest in Oratory. Prizes of Fifty Dollars for the three best short speeches by men of the freshman class, and similar prizes for the three best short speeches by men of the upper classes have served to increase interest in this form of activity. Mr. Harbison notes that the work of the department has the increasingly friendly support of the members of the Faculty, due to the fact that the classes are largely made up of timid or backward students, fully 75 per cent of the students in the department being in this group.

Sociology. Professor Sims reports upward of 250 students in the department during the past year, a heavy load for a single teacher. In the work of the department the attempt has been made to avoid the sensational and to adhere to persistent, painstaking instruction in accordance with well approved methods.

Zoölogy. Professor Budington reports that during the past year the courses in General Zoölogy, Genetics, and Vertebrate Zoölogy were given to record numbers. It was gratifying that of the nine major students graduating six were appointed to graduate assistantships in other colleges and universities, all going forward with graduate study in Zoölogy. The greatest irregularity in the department during the year was the partial absence of Professor Rogers, save for four hours per week during the first semester, class work, and four hours laboratory instruction during the second semester. Professor Rogers refers to the fact that Miss Blanche Lindsay, who had served as instructor in Physiology during the previous year while Professor Budington was absent, was retained during this past year to help with the courses in Physiology. Miss Lindsay took full charge in Human Physiology throughout the year and had charge of the laboratory work in the course in comparative Physiology during the first semester. We were fortunate indeed to be able to retain her in this way, for she brought to the department a training and a personality which would have been hard to duplicate. Her work in the Physiology and in the General Zoölogy during the second semester was of exceptionally high order in every particular. She won the complete confidence and genuine affection of all her students. An appointment seldom gives such satisfaction to all concerned as did hers.

Departmental Lectures, Conferences, and Entertainments

In a number of the departments of the College lectures or other matters of considerable interest to our students were provided during the course of the year. In the Chemistry department we were favored by lectures from Dr. Ira Remsen, of Johns Hopkins University, Dr. Reese, of the Dupont Company, and Dr. Herty, President of the Organic Chemical Manufacturer's Association. The Classical department entertained the Ohio Classical Conference in Oberlin on November 13-15, 1924. This conference was organized by Professor Lord, and is considered by him to be one of the most valuable contributions he has made to the study of Classics. The department also presented a Morality Play under the direction of Mrs. Sturgis. In the French department there were presented a recital of French poetry by Adrienne d' Ambricourt, a Christmas program by the French Club in December, readings by Dr. De Sauze, of Cleveland, on March 4, French Music on International Night, and two one-act plays. The department of Zoölogy presented during the year four lectures, two on Prehistoric Man, by Professor James H. McGregor, of Columbia University, one on the History of Thoracic Surgery, by Dr. W. D. Andrus, of the University of Cincinnati, and one upon research work on Protozoa, by Dr. Paul Vischer, of Western Reserve University.

Additions to Equipment

The financial situation of the College made it possible to add to the equipment of a number of different departments during the course of the year. Among the items provided may be mentioned: French department; stereopticon, lantern slides, phonograph and phonographic records, post cards, photographs, maps, and charts. In the department of Geology; numerous maps and specimens, several new gems, two collections of minerals, ores, rocks, etc., for use in Economic Geology. In the departments of Mathematics and Astronomy; existing apparatus was repaired and improved, and slides and transparencies were obtained. In the department of Zoölogy; ten compound microscopes, one binocular dissecting microscope, and Leitz's photomicrographic apparatus, together with some minor pieces of equipment, were secured. A small laboratory for the work in Genetics was equipped, and a valuable collection of Protochordates of the genera Salpa Pyromosoma, and also a large collection of microscopical slides were received from Maynard M. Metcalf, who maintains an unbroken interest in the department. These collections of Protochordata are probably the most complete of their kind to be found outside of the United States National Museum.

Suggested Lines of Departmental Development

Bible. Doctor Fitch suggests that early consideration be given the question of sectioning the large classes in Freshman Bible. The division of the women into smaller groups for one meeting per week has proven successful. She also raises the question as to whether students who have had good preparatory work in Bible should be held for the same work as those who are unfamiliar with the Bible.

Chemistry. Professor Holmes raises the question as to the possibility of dividing the class in General Chemistry into sections. The class in Elementary Chemistry is altogether too large for satisfactory handling as a whole. The division of the class would involve the securing of another man for the department.

Classics. The lines of development suggested in the Classics are in Ancient Oriental History and in Honors work in Greek and Roman History. There seems to be a real demand for both.

Education. Professor Miller states that there is need for an additional man in the department. When he is secured it will be possible for one man to give his whole time to the work of Practice Teaching and to extend that work to other schools in the county. The services of an additional man would also provide for the division of the elementary class in Education into four sections, would allow Professor Larson to give an additional course on tests and the technique of administering them, and on extra curricular activities. This is a line of work very much needed.

English. There is general agreement among the members of the English department having to do with English Composition that the course in English Composition should be increased from two hours per week to three. Just what effect such an increase would have upon the curriculum of the freshman year is a little difficult to forecast.

Political Science. Professor Geiser expresses the need for an additional man in Political Science and names to the President a man whom he believes to be fitted for such position as we might have to fill.

Sociology. Professor Sims also expresses the need for an additional instructor. He would divide the elementary course into sections and add some new courses so as to measure up to the standards of sociological teaching set by other colleges and give a better balanced program of sociological work.

Departmental Needs

Animal Ecology. Professor Jones finds it practically impossible under present conditions to do experimental work in Ecology. Probably no other department in the institution is so badly handicapped. Spear Laboratory is inadequate to the demands made upon it. Need is expressed for laboratory space for Ecology, for Aquaria, and Vivaria, and a variety of minor pieces of apparatus. Mr. Jones also echoes a need which was expressed a year ago by Professor Hubbard for more means of transportation of students. He suggests again the purchase by the College of a motor bus for common use of several departments for field trips, trips to Cleveland, etc. Mr. Jones also calls attention to the fact that more adequate museum space is needed. The collections now housed in Spear Laboratory are so crowded and cramped as to make them of relatively small use for museum purposes.

Astronomy. Professor Carr outlines the needs for properly equipped work in Astronomy, and estimates that at a very early date at least $40,000 should be set aside for the purchase of astronomical equipment. He does not believe it will be necessary in the immediate future to provide for a new building.

Chemistry. Professor McCullough refers to the rather large fire hazards in connection with the work in Chemistry, and raises the question as to whether adequate insurance is carried on the chemical laboratory and its contents.

Classics. The crowded condition of the present Classical Seminar Room in the Library forces the department to request that another Seminar room be provided for the use of the Classical department.

Economics. Professor Krueger emphasizes the need felt in the department of Economics for more adequate laboratory accommodations and equipment for the work in Statistics, including lockers, calculating machine, and office space for consultation with students.

Fine Arts. Professor Ward renews his request for a bulletin board to be placed on the corner near French Hall for the use of the Art Association. He refers also to the need of painting the interior of the Fine Arts Building and to certain changes needed in the unpacking room to fit it more completely for studio purposes.

French. Greater provision for Practice Teaching for members of the Teachers' Training classes, and allowance to the department of a budget sum for summer travel, to be used in rotation by members of the departmental staff are needs suggested by Professor Jameson. Also the department desires to establish some direct contacts with French universities, to which it might be possible to send students for further study under such conditions as might provide easy and sure transfers of credit.

Geology. Attention is called to the character of the building in which the Geology department is housed, and the need for new, larger fire-proof quarters.

History. Professor Moore and Professor King both refer to the fact that the History department needs a much greater outlay for books, maps, etc. than is at present available. Attention is also called to the fact that books purchased by one department are frequently found upon the reserved shelves of another department and are not therefore readily available for the use of the students for whom they were originally intended. Professor Moore emphasizes the need of better Seminar Room facilities and expresses the hope that an open-shelf room devoted to the work in History and the closely related social sciences may be provided in the near future.

Mathematics. Professor Cairns suggests that new blackboards of ground glass, of a type similar to those used in Severance laboratory, should be placed in the room devoted to Mathematics.

Philosophy. Professor MacLennan has referred to the over-heavy teaching schedule of the members of the Philosophy department, and asks either that another instructor be secured or that the whole of Professor Nicol's time be given to the work of the Philosophy department.

Physics. Professor Taylor calls attention to the very serious condition under which the department of Physics is laboring with respect to the work in elementary Physics. One complete set of apparatus for this course is now available. The second set can probably be completed by the end of the year through purchases made by laboratory fees. He believes that three other complete sets of apparatus should be provided for this work. One of these should be provided before the beginning of next year. This would involve an expenditure of $2,700. Also additional equipment is needed for the work in Electricity, for light, for research work on sunset fading of radio waves, and for work on friction. The total need for these additions is $5,550. Mr Taylor joins also with Mr. Stetson in a request for an appropriation for a camera for recording rapid movements, at an estimated cost of $400.

Psychology. Professor Stetson joins with the Physics department in making a request for a camera for recording various types of movement. He calls attention to the conditions under which one who wishes to do research work is obliged to labor, mentioning especially the fact that the College has not yet made sufficient financial provision for the carrying on of research work by members of its faculty.

Sociology. Mention of the need of the department of Sociology for an additional instructor has already been made.

Zoölogy. Professor Rogers calls attention to the fact that the very large increase in the number of students in the elementary work in Zoölogy makes serious conflict in the use of microscopes which have ordinarily been used by the elementary Zoölogy and the class in Human Physiology. It seems probable that in the near future at least fifteen new compound microscopes should be added to the equipment of the department. One line of work which has never received attention here in Oberlin is that of the basal metabolism of human beings. Mr. Rogers suggests the purchase of one basal metabolism apparatus, at a cost of $200.

General Needs and Suggestions

Professors Geiser, Holmes, and Rogers refer to the need of an early consideration of increases in salaries to provide, not alone for maintaining a reasonable scale of living, but to provide also for travel and study during vacation periods and to make attendance at the meetings of learned societies more practicable. The present situation with regard to salaries is not very different from what it was at the time when salaries were last increased. Professor Holmes and Professor Rogers both point out that if we are to maintain a first-class faculty the College must pay salaries equal to those at Amherst, or Williams, or any other college of our class. This means that Oberlin salaries should soon be advanced so that the maximum for full professors will be $6,000. The salaries of the teachers of the lower grades should receive early consideration. Mr. Holmes supports an idea already in effect at the University of Chicago, the system of "Distinguished Service Professorships." He feels that such a group set apart at $1,500 above the regular full professor's salary would enable us to secure and hold a number of the most able men in the country. He believes that the effect of such distinguished service professorships would be not only to secure good men from outside, but would appeal to the ambitions of the men already in Oberlin to secure such standing as would enable them to qualify for election to this small group.

Professor Harbison, Professor Krueger, and Mr. Hana-walt voice a very general feeling on the part of members of the Faculty that office and consultation rooms must be provided for members of the Faculty at an early date if the work of the College is not to suffer.

Professor Jameson suggests that in certain cases scholarships covering tuition or possibly more, be granted to students upon the basis of excellence in a particular field.

Professor Jones suggests a restudy of the final disposition of Spear Laboratory. He believes that the location of the building at the corner of Lorain and Main Streets would be a better site for the building if it is to continue to house the Zoölogy department after its removal from the Campus. Incidentally, also, this would be a better location of the building than the site previously suggested if it is to be used as a general museum. Mr. Jones points out in this connection that the ideal and logical location for a general museum is in the Science Quadrangle, or as near to it as possible.

The removal of Spear Laboratory from the Campus under the conditions of Mr. Hall's will make necessary an early consideration of the future, not only of Spear Laboratory, but of the Zoölogy department.

Professor King believes that the Faculty should consider the whole general problem of the addition of courses of instruction and that such addition of courses and instruction should follow a well considered plan and not be the result of skilful management within a department. He also believes that the whole question of teaching hours should be reviewed with careful recognition of the fact that there is an immense difference in the kind and amount of preparation year in and year out, as well as in the strain of effective class-room work in one field and another. In this connection the matter of allowing fully paid instructors to devote a considerable part of their time and energy during the school year to drawing a second salary ought to be considered.

Professor MacLennan raises the question as to whether we ought longer to attempt to meet the requirements of the State Education Department for certification of teachers within the four years of the undergraduate school. The whole question of professional training in the undergraduate years should be faced.

Professor Miller refers with commendation to the work of Miss Barnes in the Bureau of Appointments. It is his judgment that she manages the office efficiently and well. She serves the interest of both students and employers intelligently and fairly. She is interested in and keeps in close touch with all new developments that concern her work.

Professor Moore enters a protest against the existing practice of extra pay for extra teaching. It is clear that this matter needs the careful consideration of some important committee of the Faculty or Council.

Mr. Rogers suggests that the College consider again the advisability of limiting the number of students in the College to one thousand. It is certainly true that the College cannot do the quality of work with the present large numbers of students which we have been accustomed to do. Unless there can be added accommodations and equipment it would seem that a thousand students could be much better served than our present number of thirteen hundred, and the quality of the work done would be of much greater credit to the institution than the larger number of student served. In this same connection Mr. Rogers believes, along with Mr. Holmes, that the tuition rates in the College should at an early date be increased so that the student will bear a somewhat larger proportion of the cost of instruction than is now the case.

Professor Stetson refers to the lack of proper housing of the men students. It has been pointed out that we are failing to hold our own in the matter of keeping the number of men desired in college. Mr. Stetson believes that the time has come when we should either build or acquire dormitories for men, or allow the men to organize fraternities. He says:—"Both suggestions involve raising money for men's dormitories, but with this difference: If the college furnishes the dormitories it assumes the risk and expense and controls the dormitories. If the men are allowed to organize fraternities, then the undergraduates and the alumni of the fraternities must assume the risk and expense of dormitories for men. This cannot be a small item. A school like Oberlin would have from ten to fifteen fraternities, and fifteen would be decidedly better than ten. They will at first lease houses at high rates, and later they will build. When they build they will raise their money by charging what they can to their members, and by pledging their graduates as they go out to substantial contributions to their building fund. A common way of securing their original loan is by selling bonds to alumni. A fraternity system in Oberlin means that the students and graduates will ultimately furnish a fund of $250,000—$375,000 for dormitories. The control of these dormitories will be with the fraternities. What is contributed in this way must cut into Living Endowment gifts. A fraternity system must raise the cost of living to the men, and will tend to change the type of men who come to Oberlin. And of course it will bring very decided changes in the social life at Oberlin. The change as to dancing and smoking is a very minor matter indeed as compared with the introduction of fraternities. A fraternity system need not interfere seriously with scholarship, and it need not tend to minor immorality; and there are some advantages in the system. There are already two organizations here which are to all intents and purposes local fraternities—though I think it is assumed that they are violating no ruling of the faculty—and unless there are adequate housing accommodations for men, a fraternity system is to develop; first local fraternities and then national. And by common consent, if you are to have fraternities, the national are better than the local. But I think that there is a majority of the faculty as well as a large majority of the students who would prefer to see an adequate social system without fraternities. It would seem an opportunity to make a contribution to American college life. But if we are to have a social system for the men without fraternities, it will mean a substantial outlay because money in dormitories can yield very little interest. And it will mean far more effort and attention than has been given to the problem. It may be a contribution, and it will be a unique thing among middle western colleges. But just because it is a unique thing, an adequate social life without fraternities will be very hard indeed to realize. We cannot drift indefinitely as we are, and if something is to be done toward providing houses for the men, it should be done at once. I doubt if planning to build dormitories meets the need. Houses ought to be leased or purchased and the plan started next year, while the slow process of building dormitories goes on."

Instruction

The customary tables of information concerning the amount of instruction offered and given in the College during the year, as prepared by the Secretary of the College, are given below. The first shows, in semester hours, the amount of work offered, each semester of every course being counted for as many hours as the course had recitation periods, or equivalent laboratory periods, per week through the semester, without regard to the number of sections in which the course was to be given.

* Professor or Associate Professor absent on Sabbatical leave.

This table shows that the net increase in the amount of instruction offered in 1924-25 over that for 1923-24, if we leave out of account the courses in Slavic, which were discontinued in 1923-24, was 47 semester hours. The increases, amounting to 84 semester hours, were in the following departments: Chemistry, Education, Fine Arts (Studio Courses), Geology, Greek, Mathematics, Philosophy, Public Speaking, Spanish, and Zoölogy. The losses, amounting to 37 semester hours, were in Botany, Fine Arts (Historical Courses), History, Hygiene, Physics, French, and Italian. It should be noted, however, that the largest gain, that in Chemistry, was partly due to special advanced work provided for individual students or small groups, while the largest losses, those in Fine Arts and History, were due to the absence of teachers on leave. Twenty-one semester courses announced in the Bulletin, nine of which were Honors courses, were not given. Twelve courses were organized and given, though not announced in advance. Seven additional sections of courses were found necessary and were provided.

The second table shows, in "instruction units," the amount of instruction actually given in the year. Each "unit," as the term is here used, represents the instruction of one student for one hour a week through one semester. The number of units credited to a course is consequently the product of the number of students taking the course multiplied by the number of recitation periods, or equivalent laboratory periods, of the course per week each semester.

The total of 38,924 instruction units is a considerable increase over that of the preceding year. The departments showing greatest increases are German, Mathematics, English Composition, Zoölogy, Political Science, and Bible. The principal losses were in English Literature, Fine Arts (Historical Courses), and History. A large part of the losses in the last two of these departments is due to the absence of the head of the department on leave. The total number of classes and sections for the year was 569, as against 532 and 534 for the years immediately preceding. The average size of classes, obtained by dividing the entire enrolment in all classes for both semesters by 569, was 25.6, the same as in the preceding year. The number of classes with an enrolment between 31 and 40 was 66, as against 58 the year before; between 41 and 50 there were 14, as against 18 the preceding year; between 51 and 60 there were 13, as against 11 the year before; and there were 27 over 60, the same number as in the year before. The whole number exceeding 30 was 120, or 21.1 per cent of the whole number, as against 21.4 per cent the year before. It is unfortunate that after having adopted 30 as the maximum beyond which it is not desirable for recitations to go, we find slightly more than one-fifth of all our classes exceeding that number. All gymnasium classes are omitted from the computation, as less likely to be seriously hampered in the effectiveness of their work by large numbers.

Attendance and Scholarship

The entire number of students in the College of Arts and Sciences for the year was 1,324, of whom 624 were men and 700 were women. This was a gain of 84 over the preceding year, 80 men and four women.

The Freshman Honor List contained the names of 41 Freshmen who ranked highest in grades for full work in the first semester. The list was headed by Miss Elizabeth May Heskett, of the Scott High School, Toledo. In May thirty members of the Senior class, eight men and twenty-two women, were elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. In the preceding year the list numbered thirteen men and seventeen women. At Commencement fourteen Seniors were graduated with distinction, four summa cum laude in German, Latin, and Mathematics, five magna cum laude in Latin, Physics, and Spanish; and five cum laude in Latin, Political Science, School Music, and Sociology. Of these fourteen, seven were men and seven women.

In the list of students delinquent in scholarship, 134 were involved in the first semester and 94 in the second.

The number of separate conditions and failures was 145 in the first semester and 128 in the second semester. The students who incurred these failures and conditions also left incomplete 17 courses in the first semester and 10 in the second. These figures are larger for the first semester than those of the year before, but smaller in the second. The number of incomplete courses of other students was 125 in the first semester and 69 in the second semester, appearing in the records of 79 students in the first semester, 53 in the second.

Needs

It is a pleasure to report that it has at last been possible to make a beginning upon one of the major needs so persistently urged in these reports for several years past. The well deserved but long delayed promotion of a considerable number of assistant professors, and even more the adoption of a plan, along the lines first suggested in these reports in 1919-20, for regular consideration at stated times of the claims of teachers of this rank for promotion, make a decided and most welcome advance upon previous conditions. It is to be hoped, however, that this advance is but the beginning of progress in many directions, for the list of needs of the College is still uncomfortably large.

At the head of the list must stand the need of new buildings, both for recitation halls and for dormitories. We are using all the available room about the campus for recitation purposes, and are facing both an increase in the number of classes as our resources grow, and the loss of some present recitation space as well. Only four years remain before Spear Laboratory and French Hall must, under the terms of Mr. Hall's bequest, be removed from the Campus, if, indeed, an earlier settlement of the estate should not shorten that time. Spear Laboratory may be moved and continue to be used for classes in its new location for a time, but it ought to be replaced for that purpose by a new building in the Science Quadrangle as soon as possible. In place of French Hall either a section of the long-looked-for recitation quadrangle must be built, or, perhaps better, as a first step, a new building for Physics be erected. The inadequate and unsafe Botany and Geology buildings also ought to be replaced with commodious fire-proof structures at the earliest opportunity. The Women's Gymnasium is altogether too dilapidated to be kept in use any longer than is absolutely necessary, and the Men's Gymnasium, though still an excellent building, is becoming steadily more inadequate to serve the growing number of men.

The need of dormitories for men is scarcely less serious than that of recitation and laboratory buildings. Outside of the Men's Building, which accommodates only about one-sixth of the men now in the College of Arts and Sciences, there is no dormitory for men that in location, size, construction and appointments even remotely approaches the requirements of a proper home for college men. There are many private houses that offer excellent accommodations, but dependence upon them disperses the men altogether too widely for their best interest or for those of the college. There can be little doubt that the insufficient appeal of the college to men is due in large measure to this situation.

Following closely upon the need of buildings is the need of strengthening the faculty. Some departments indicate in their reports that their teaching staff is still inadequate, even for the present work, and in other departments the desirability, even the necessity, of expansion is plain. The development of plans for timely promotion of successful teachers must also be carried further, and another revision of the salary scale as a whole, to raise it more nearly to the plane of constantly advancing costs, will continue to be a pressing necessity until the resources of the college make it possible.

Along with building up the teaching staff the need of expanding the administrative staff should be kept in mind. The larger institutions, as Professor Rogers points out above, are steadily enlarging the number of officers who devote a definite portion of their time to oversight of the work of undergraduates committed to their special care. We need considerable expansion in that direction, and on the recording and clerical side as well.

The need of additional equipment in a considerable number of departments is evident from the summary of their reports above. Physics and Astronomy show the largest and most urgent need, but practically all the science departments are handicapped in greater or less degree by lack of adequate apparatus for efficient work. In other departments, especially History and the Business Administration side of Economics, the need of books, maps, charts, etc., is pressing.

Another advance that ought soon to be made is that of better sifting of candidates accepted for admission to college. Every year we admit students who promptly prove unable to carry a college course, and others who do not entirely fail, but are destined always to be poor students. At the same time it is practically certain that we turn away many applicants who have the ability to do a very high grade of college work. The development of mental tests, both here and elsewhere, has gone so far as to give us, in conjunction with the student's high school record, the means of determining with a high degree of accuracy the applicant's capacity to profit by a college course. As soon as we can change our practice in regard to admission to the extent of giving the tests before accepting the student, instead of after his admission, we can greatly improve the potential quality of our student body and save a great deal of wasted effort on both the student's part and our own.

A fund for the endowment of lectures, both general and departmental, is the last, but by no means the least need to be recorded here. Its importance has often been urged. It is earnestly hoped that the means of adding so vital an intellectual stimulus to the work of the college may soon be found.

There should be added to this report Professor Hartson's discussion of the Oberlin Student Rating Scales and Intelligence Tests, in order that there may be a clearer and fuller understanding by us all of this important work.

The Oberlin Student Rating Scales

During the first semester an intensive study was made to determine the validity of the scales with which we have been gathering data concerning the students from the teachers. Ratings were obtained from 40 teachers of 226 seniors, from 4 teachers of English of 211 freshmen, and from 2 teachers of mathematics of 79 freshmen. The results of this study were reported at the Cincinnati meeting of the National Society of College Teachers of Education, and the following summary was printed in the Service Bulletin of the Personnel Research Federation, which was distributed to those attending the Conference on Student Personnel Problems, held in Washington, May 22: ". . . Analysis of these ratings showed that only 4 of the 40 teachers had a definite tendency toward stereotyped ratings. The A.D. of their judgments was almost one-half the possible deviation. The 'halo effect' was studied in a number of ways. Although it is certainly present, it is very difficult to isolate, since there is apparently a high correlation between the different factors that contribute to a student's success.

"To determine the validity of the ratings, correlations were run between the ratings on the intelligence items and the test scores. The 'r' for the 81 students who were rated by three or more teachers is 0.72. As these judgments were passed upon students who were already beyond observation—most of the estimates being made in retrospect—and all agree that rating can be done more accurately when the students are actually under observation, it seems not unreasonable to expect that the rating scales may be made to serve as a reliable method of gathering this type of personnel data."

You will be interested in knowing that, in reviewing current developments in psychological aspects of student personnel work, at The Institute for Personnel Workers held under the auspices of The Bureau of Vocational Information in New York in June, Dr. W. V. Bingham expressed his judgment that the Oberlin Rating Scales are the best yet devised.

Appreciation should be expressed for the splendid coöperation which has been accorded us in the compilation of these data concerning the students. Even if no immediate use be made of the data it will be indispensable when we attempt to explain the successes or failures of these individuals as alumni of the institution.

The Intelligence Tests

Intelligence tests were administered to the seniors and freshmen on the first Saturday of the year. The test scores are yielding some valuable results which are summarized in the following paragraphs:

1. The Prediction of the Scholastic Success of the Freshmen.

Comparison of the first semester grades and the high school credit points presented by freshmen shows that there is a fairly high correlation between the two. There is also a positive correlation, though a rather low one, between the ratings given in the personal estimates by high school principals and friends, on the one hand, and the college scholastic record, on the other. These estimates refer principally, however, to such factors as leadership and extra-curricular prominence. The correspondence between test scores and college grades is even closer than that between high school and college grades. By combining both sets of data, i.e., the high school credit points and the test scores, college grades can be quite accurately predicted. The correlation coefficients follow:

Correlations between first semester grades and
	Men	Women
High school credit points	.542	.540
Personal estimates	.279	.123
Test scores	.593	.549
Multiple correlation involving H. S. credits and test scores	.680	.650

Interpretation: If those with poor high school records did better in college than those with good records the 'r' would be somewhere between —1.0 and 0; anything higher than 0 is a positive correlation 'r's below .3 are low, those between .3 and .5 are fair, and those above .5 are good correlations.

2. The Prediction of Success in English Composition.

Most of the analyses of test scores that have thus far been made have been concerned with the prediction of college success in general, rather than with success in particular subjects. During this year we have concentrated attention primarily upon the modern languages, and especially upon English Composition. Profiting by the experience of five years at Oberlin and the experiments of other colleges a battery of tests was selected and adapted to local use. In coöperation with Mr. Jelliffe and Mr. Hanawalt, a new form of test was constructed, which we have called a Sentence Reconstruction Test. The results of the first year's experiment with this test are very gratifying. With but one exception, it proved to be a better test of proficiency in composition than any test that had been previously used, so far as the men were concerned.

The tests as a battery proved to be the most satisfactory instrument yet employed for predicting the semester grades. If the criterion of inferior accomplishment be taken to be the inability to make a grade better than 'D plus' for the semester, such inaptitude was detected by the tests in 85% of the cases. The method which has been used for discovering such students has been the method of reading two themes written in class. The theme method picked out only 55% of the poor students. If the standard be raised, in the case of the girls, so as to include those whose semester grades were 'C', the contrast is even greater. For while the reading of the students' themes found but 50% of the poor students, the test method discovered 90% of them.

3. The Prediction of Success in Foreign Modern Languages.

We were interested to discover that this battery of "English Tests" was quite as effective in predicting success in French, German and Spanish as in English. The particular tests that are most significant differ in the two cases, however. For English Composition the most significant tests are those for vocabulary, information, and sentence reconstruction. The tests giving the highest correlations with foreign language grades are those for comprehension of data presented in paragraphs, of analogous relationships of grammatical forms, vocabulary, and the logical relationship of sentences.

A total of 343 freshmen were registered for modern languages. Of those with poor test scores only 12 received grades above 'C plus.' Of the 92 who received grades above 'B' only 5 made poor test scores. By combining the high school records with the test scores last September one might have named 22 of the 24 who made grades of 'B' or better.

4. Comparison of the Test Scores of the Men and the Women.

Inasmuch as the women admitted to college have so much better a high school record than the men it is interesting to compare the test scores. Summarizing the results for the six years during which tests have been administered at Oberlin, we find that the women have made better scores, on the average, in the tests of vocabulary, sentence reconstruction, analogies and logical sequence. The men do just as well in tests of comprehension; they usually make better scores than the women in tests involving the use of mathematical symbols; they are uniformly better in what have been conceived to be tests for general information. This applies not only to tests, like The Thorndike Examination, which contain a large percentage of scientific and technical questions, but to tests in which care has been taken to balance the activities in which the sexes are peculiarly interested.

5. Comparison of the Seniors with the Freshmen.

The results obtained last year confirm those of previous years in the conclusion that, in any particular year, seniors are little if at all superior to freshmen in ability to discern analogous relationships, in sense of logical sequence, and ability to read with comprehension. The men of 1928 made exactly the same median score as the men of 1925 in a 36 minute reading test. At the same time 82% of them made a better score in the information test, and 70% of them made a better showing in vocabulary than the average freshman. Thus far the tests that have been given to seniors have not been sufficiently comparable to those given the same students three years earlier to permit an adequate comparison. It will be possible next fall to retest seniors with the same types of tests as were administered to them when freshmen. It will then be possible to formulate a more adequate answer to the questions concerning the extent to which the college years add to one's intellectual powers.

6. Comparison of the Test Scores of High School Seniors and of College Freshmen.

Report was made to the Ohio College Association at the April meeting of a review of the literature made to ascertain the extent to which the colleges are selecting from the high school graduates those who make the higher scores. This paper appears in the transactions of the association. The conclusions of the study follow.

(1). The state universities are apparently receiving as freshmen students who represent all of the levels of ability to be found among high school seniors. Practically no selection takes place between high school graduation and college matriculation, so far as the abilities measured by these tests are concerned.

(2). Colleges which, like Oberlin, select students on the basis of high scholastic records and favorable personal recommendations, are apparently getting a more select group, from the viewpoint of intelligence test scores. In the Army Alpha Test 80% of the Oberlin freshmen made a better score than the average state university man. In the Iowa Comprehension Test 75% of the Oberlin freshmen made a better score than the average Iowa freshman.

(3). The small amount of data we have been able to obtain suggests that very probably such institutions as Yale are making an even better selection of their freshmen. Basing entrance upon examination may very possibly result in the exclusion of a considerable proportion of those who make low test scores. 17% of the Ohio State freshmen made Army Alpha scores lower than the lowest made at Yale. The difference in ability between Yale and Oberlin, while not nearly so marked as that between Yale and Ohio State, is nevertheless in favor of Yale.

We have been encouraged by the helpful criticism of men working on allied problems in other institutions. As a member of the Committee on Intelligence Tests of the Ohio College Association, I have come into contact with the leaders in this field of research in the state, and I have been helped especially by the coöperation of Professor H. A. Toops, of Ohio State University, recognized throughout the country as one of the most capable men in the field. We were, therefore, especially heartened by this statement in a recent letter from Doctor Toops: "You are surely on the track of some of the most basic problems; some which no one has attacked in any systematic way so far as is reported in the four hundred and forty titles which we now have on college tests. I would say that all you need is a super-abundance of time and an inclination for hard work in order to get some very excellent results from the data which you have at hand."

The Dean of College Men, Dr. Carl C. W. Nicol, reports an enrolment of 624 men for the academic year 1924-25. This number included the largest number of Freshman men the College has ever reported, but the number of Freshman men for the current semester is considerably less and practically returns to the number of Freshmen for the year 1923-24. The college Faculty feel that a careful study ought to be made of this situation, and the Dean emphasizes once again the very great importance of improving at the earliest possible date the living and social conditions for the men.

Dean Nicol also urges again the great desirability of the employment of a Field Secretary to visit high schools and enlist more men for Oberlin.

The Dean reports that there were few cases of discipline during the year, and he feels that the coöperation of students with Faculty in general is excellent, and their genuine loyalty to the College unquestioned.

Miss Anna M. Klingenhagen, Dean of College Women and Chairman of the Women's Board, reports an enrolment of 700 women in the College of Arts and Sciences for the year 1924-25; of these, 13 were graduate students.

The health record of the year was good and the class absences reported were fewer than in the preceding year, both relatively and absolutely.

The Dean reports that a generally good spirit prevailed among the women last year, and the Women's League functioned effectively under the leadership of Miss Esther Balch of Oak Park, Illinois. There were no serious cases of misconduct, and it was necessary for the Joint Council to hold only a few meetings, the majority of disciplinary cases being dealt with by the Executive Board, a body composed exclusively of students.

During the last two or three years, because of several generous gifts, the amount available for both scholarship aid and loans has been materially increased. Last year 109 women received gifts totaling $12,875.61, and 26 Seniors and Juniors borrowed from the loan funds to the extent of $3,830.

The Dean has this to say concerning the housing situation:

The ideal housing situation toward which all colleges are working is one in which all the students live in houses owned and managed directly by the institution. At the present time Oberlin College can provide accommodations in its dormitories for 484 women. The six private boarding houses with their four annexes take care of 233, while 111 women live in private annexes to college houses of residence. Your Dean of Women in other reports has urged the need of more dormitories, but she appreciates the fact that unless an unexpected donor appears, it will necessarily be several years before Oberlin reaches the ideal situation. A beginning could be made, however, if the College would build additions to some of the houses already in use. It would be quite feasible to add a wing to Lord Cottage, which has both dining room space and kitchen equipment sufficient to take care of more women. One advantage of an addition over an annex is that no additional matron is required. Moreover, the students always prefer to live in the main building rather than in an annex. Miss Nash likewise urges the building of a wing to Allencroft. If these two additions could be built, from 50 to 75 more students could be taken care of in college houses.

The Dean reports also what has been done during this year to meet in a modest way the need of a Women's Building.

As Oberlin College has no Women's Building, there has been an imperative need for a place where small groups of women could get together for committee meetings and for informal teas and suppers. The Women's League also has been hampered by the lack of an office and a meeting place of its own. This situation has now been changed. The house at 40 South Professor Street, one floor of which has been used by the Young Women's Christian Association, is to be devoted, with the exception of one room given over to the Hi-O-Hi staff, entirely to the needs of the women. The Y. W. C. A. will continue to use its old office downstairs, and the Women's League will have an office and committee room on the second floor. The two small upstairs rooms on the north side have been converted into one large room which the League will furnish as an assembly and reading room. This room and the corresponding one on the first floor may be engaged for either committee or social purposes. A small room has been fitted with sink, shelves and electric stove, and the League and Y. W. C. A. together will furnish dishes and silver. Already, although the equipment is not complete, the building is in great demand.

The records of the Registrar of the College of Arts and Sciences concern 1,324 students for the year under review, as against 1,240 the preceding year. The Registrar points out that the departments of study registering the largest number of major students, in order, are: English, Economics, Physical Education, Latin, History, Sociology, Chemistry, Political Science and French,—French and Political Science tying for the eighth place. Again English leads as usual in the choice of majors, with an increased number of men majoring in the department. There is also a large gain in Latin.

The Registrar's figures show that 34 religious denominations were represented by the student body of the College of Arts and Sciences by membership or preference. On account of historical affiliations Congregationalists naturally lead (487), although the College has no denominational limitation of any kind. A narrowly denominational college is neither sought nor desired. The survey also shows that there are large numbers both of Methodists (250) and Presbyterians (225). The other churches contributing the largest number of students, in order, are: Baptist (59); Episcopal (46); Lutheran (37); Christian (28); United Presbyterian (20); Disciple (17); Reformed (14). The proportions are almost exactly the same as last year. In the case of 46 students no membership or preference is indicated.

The Registrar continues her study this year of the various occupations of the parents of the college students. Her records show that for the College of Arts and Sciences 118 of our students came from the homes of ministers, foreign missionaries or other religious workers (115 the preceding year); 88 from the homes of teachers or educational executives (72 the preceding year); from the homes of other professions 232, including 65 from the homes of physicians (55 the preceding year), 56 from the homes of those working in applied science (42 the preceding year), 46 from the homes of lawyers (37 the preceding year), 23 from the homes of those working in social service (14 the preceding year), 19 from the homes of journalists (23 the preceding year), 11 from the homes of dentists; 12 from other professions—architecture, music, library work, etc.; from homes representing still other occupations, 746, (729 the preceding year). Of these occupations, 366 are in trade or commerce (372 the preceding year); 122 in manufacturing and mechanical industries (104 the preceding year); 104 in some form of agriculture, including forestry and horticulture (113 the preceding year); 37 in transportation (28 the preceding year); 25 from government service, United States and foreign (22 the preceding year); 24 in public service (17 the preceding year); 23 in service as matrons, housekeepers, etc.; 17 in clerical occupations; the remainder are scattered among 4 other classes of callings. One hundred and forty are grouped as retired, unemployed or occupation unknown. The seemingly large number of unemployed or those whose occupations are not designated, includes many mothers who are widows and are keeping the home. The large number of students coming from the homes of ministers and other religious workers, and from the homes of teachers or educational executives, is very notable.

As Chairman of the Committee on Admission the Secretary of the College presents his usual careful analysis of the college enrolment, showing that 840 students, representing 63.44 per cent of the total, have been in previous attendance in the College of Arts and Sciences, and that 484, representing 36.56 per cent of the total, were new students in this department. These percentages show only slight variations from those of the preceding year. Over a ten year period the Secretary finds that on the average 64 per cent are old students, that is, they have been enrolled in Oberlin in former years, and that 36 per cent are new, that is, they have never before been enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. Of the 484 new students admitted to the College of Arts and Sciences for the year 1924-25, 396 were admitted as Freshman (352 the preceding year); 44 as Sophomores (27 the preceding year); 28 as Juniors (17 the preceding year), and none as Seniors; the others were graduate or special students.

Eighty-eight students all told were admitted with advanced standing and came from 58 institutions. The 393 students admitted as Freshmen and as special students of Freshmen rank came from 235 different high schools, academies and other secondary schools. The corresponding figures for 1923-24 were 359 students from 221 schools; for 1922-23 the figures were 355 students from 229 schools; for 1921-22, 345 students from 218 schools. Oberlin High School was represented by 35 students. Of the other schools, West High School of Cleveland ranked second with 11 representatives. Lakewood, Ohio, High School ranked third with 9 students, and Scott High School of Toledo ranked fourth with 7 students. There were 6 representatives from the Chagrin Falls, Ohio, High School and from the Elyria, Ohio, High School; there were 5 representatives from Shaw High School, East Cleveland, and from Lorain, Ohio, High School. There were 4 representatives from each of the following schools: McKinley High school, Canton, Ohio; Glenville High School, Cleveland, Ohio; Lincoln High School, Cleveland, Ohio; Moraine Park High School, Dayton, Ohio; Central High School, Lima, Ohio; Oak Park and River Forest Township High School, Oak Park, Illinois; Ravenna High School, Ravenna, Ohio; Wellington High School, Wellington, Ohio; Rayen School, Youngstown, Ohio. Nine schools were represented by 3 students each and 37 schools by 2 students each. There were 172 schools that were represented by one student each.

The Chairman of the Committee on Admission points out again the remarkable degree to which we hold Freshman honor students to the later years of the course: "During the last four years there have been 148 students on the Freshman Honor Lists, and only 7 of this number have failed to return for their Sophomore year. A similar study of the return of Freshman Honor students for Junior year enrolment shows a total of 444 out of 570, the percentage being 77.9. The figure for the Senior year is 402 out of a total of 534, the percentage being 75.3. When it comes to actual graduation, the table shows the graduation of 373 out of a total of 498 who received Freshman honors, the percentage being 74.9. Death, ill health, marriage, financial difficulties, the necessity of entering upon professional and technical work before the completion of Liberal Arts training, and enrolment in other colleges and universities because of geographical considerations or because of family connections,—these are the reasons for the non-return to Oberlin of the relatively few Freshman Honor students who have not continued their study in this college. It rarely occurs that students in this group withdraw from Oberlin to enroll in other institutions for work in Liberal Arts courses because of dissatisfaction either with Oberlin standards of scholarship or with student life in Oberlin.”

The Secretary submits also a general discussion of the non-return of students in the three upper classes, for the year 1924-25, which shows gratifying gains.

The Sophomore class in the year 1924-25 showed a net loss of 21 as compared to the Freshman class in the year 1923-24, the percentage of loss being 5.6. This is the lowest net loss ever recorded. The average loss over a period of 24 years in passing from the Freshman class of one year to the Sophomore class of the next year is 20.9 per cent.

The Junior class in the year 1924-25 showed a net loss of 35 as compared to the Sophomore enrolment of the year before, the percentage of loss being 11.7. This is the lowest percentage in many years. The average loss experienced in the last 24 years in passing from the Sophomore class of one year to the Junior class of the succeeding year is 18.1 per cent.

The Senior class in the year 1924-25 showed a net loss of 9 as compared to the Junior class enrolment of the preceding year. The experience of 24 years shows an average gain of 3 students in passing from the Junior to the Senior year. However, there has been a decided change of policy concerning the admission of Seniors, and we are not expecting to admit any students with Senior classification hereafter. It does not seem wise either for the student or for the College that a student from another institution should register as a Senior in Oberlin. The student does not become closely identified with Oberlin or with the Senior class in a single year of enrolment, and it seldom happens that the student has met both the specific requirements that Oberlin enforces for graduation and the special requirements involved in our "major" system. This situation has meant that the College must either relinquish somewhat its ordinary requirements or must insist upon a schedule that frequently is not a satisfactory schedule for a student in his Senior year of college enrolment. In the fall of 1923 there were only three new students admitted with Senior classification; in the fall of 1924, as well as in the fall of 1925, no new Seniors were admitted.

Other statistical studies show that Oberlin, during the period of the last 21 years, has graduated slightly more than one-half of the students who have enrolled in the College for courses of study.

It is of interest to note that there is a gratifying improvement in the graduation percentage since the war as compared to the period before the war. The Secretary has made a separate study of the period from 1901 to 1914, before the outbreak of the war, and of the years from 1919 to 1925, since the close of the war. The graduation percentage for the pre-war period, from 1901 to 1914 was 52.3 per cent, and for the post-war period, 1919 to 1924, it was 58.7 per cent.

The Secretary closes his report with a brief survey of the working of the new plan of admission of students:

The new plan was devised by the Committee on Admission for the purpose of lessening the importance of priority of application and of increasing that of high scholarship and personal qualifications. There is certainly no question as to the success of the plan in both particulars.

The Alumni of the College should know that one important concession is made to them. It is the policy of the College that sons and daughters of all Alumni, if properly qualified, will be accepted if their applications are on file and their credentials duly submitted before April first of the year for which application for admission has been made. Preferential treatment is also given to properly qualified brothers and sisters of present students. But this preferential treatment does not necessarily imply acceptance; it merely means that other things being equal, these close relatives of Alumni and present students will receive first chances for freshman places.

The experience of the year 1924-25 shows that there is the same close correspondence between quality of work in the high school, assignment of entrance "points," and quality of work in the Freshman class. Professor Hartson has made some interesting studies as to the relation between admission scores and results of mental tests that seem to give additional evidence that the new plan for admission seems to be justifying itself.

A considerable portion of Professor Hartson's study has already been presented as a part of the report of the Acting Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The Graduate School of Theology.

The second annual report of Professor Thomas W. Graham as Dean of the Graduate School of Theology is presented in full. Dean Graham calls especial attention to the need of more adequate buildings and increased endowment resources, and of the enlargement of the work of the School of Theology along the lines of Religious Education and laboratory experience in the field of Practical Theology. There can be no doubt of the very great need of new buildings. A relatively small amount of added resources would put the School of Theology in excellent condition.

I have the honor to report to you another year of successful work in the Graduate School of Theology. Though the enrolment is still small, there having been forty-one students this year, the different members of the faculty seem to feel that the work done has been of high quality. In addition to the students regularly enrolled in the School of Theology a considerable number of upper class college men and women have been taking advantage of such of our classes as are open to them.

There were four men in the graduating class and in addition one man and three women completed the requirements for the Master of Arts degree with majors in theological subjects.

With the exception of Professor Hannah who was on leave during the first semester all of the men carried their usual work. Owing to a nervous breakdown Professor Fiske was compelled to be absent from his classes for two months but was able before leaving Oberlin for this enforced rest to adjust the work of his classes so that by the unselfish help of Dr. F. H. Foster, the Rev. Nicholas Vander Pyl and the Rev. J. L. Lobingier the work of his department did not suffer.

The School of Theology entertained two distinguished German scholars during the year. Professor Rudolf Otto of Marburg came as the Haskell Lecturer and made a scholarly contribution to Oberlin in his discussion of "The Comparison of Eastern and Western Mysticism." Dr. Julius Richter of the University of Berlin gave three lectures on "The Missionary Movement in the Modern World" which reflected the life-long study of the problems of Christian Missions to which he has given himself. In addition to their lectures Professors Otto and Richter made themselves personally available to the students in the School of Theology and put their wide experience freely at the disposal of our men.

The life of the students in the School of Theology has been happy and interesting. This year The Seminary Union began the policy of assisting the faculty in interesting more definitely the alumni and the students in the College in the work of the school. The Union sent letters to all of the alumni expressing their satisfaction with the courses they were receiving here and urging them to personal work toward the enlargement of our enrolment. Letters were sent by them to men and women in all the colleges of this region who are contemplating graduate study in Theology, and in addition the students of the Seminary entertained the men of the College of Arts and Sciences who are planning for full time religious service on three different occasions. This activity on the part of the Union is, I believe, a very healthy sign.

It is not possible for the faculty of the School of Theology to express the regret they feel at the resignation in the course of the year of Professor Ian C. Hannah of the Chair of Church History, and the decision on the part of President King to give up his teaching in Theology. Professor Hannah had proved himself to be a very stimulating teacher of History, an excellent comrade in the faculty and a spirit of exceptional value. Our sense of loss at his leaving will remain with us through the years. Our regret at the President's decision to give up his teaching is tempered only by his continuing with us in the planning for the administration of the School of Theology. The Chair of Theology at Oberlin has for nearly a century been one of the most important Chairs in the United States. The succession of magnificent teachers who have occupied this Chair have made it recognized as greatly formative in the theological life and thinking of America. During his own occupancy of this Chair, President King has sustained its worthy tradition and has added to its power. Many of the alumni conscious of their own debt to President King's teaching, will join with the faculty in regretting that other classes of men are not to have the enrichment of his personal teaching.

The faculty welcomes to Oberlin the successors to President King and Professor Hannah. Mr. F. W. Buckler, M.A., becomes Professor of Church History. He has had a thorough training in this field as an undergraduate and graduate student of Cambridge University and brings not only this academic training but the rich experience of three years of teaching in India, four years of service in the British Army in India, Egypt and Palestine, and five years of lecturing at Cambridge and University College, Leicester. Mr. W. M. Horton, Ph.D., becomes Associate Professor of Theology, entering upon this work after eight years of brilliant graduate study. Mr. Horton has been trained at Harvard, Union Theological Seminary, New York, and Columbia University, with two years of study in France and Germany. He comes as does Mr. Buckler with the heartiest commendation from his former associates who commend him as one of rare scholarly capacity and of large human interest.

The needs of the Graduate School of Theology are still those to which attention was called in my report a year ago. We should have more adequate buildings and increased endowment resources which will make possible our taking full advantage of the opportunities for practical training which lie about us in the neighboring cities of Elyria, Lorain, and Cleveland. My judgment is that the School of Theology will be greatly strengthened in its appeal and service when we are able to measure up more closely to other seminaries of our rank in offerings along the line of religious education and laboratory experience in the field of Practical Theology.

As Dean I want to bear testimony to the consistent and kindly way in which the members of the faculty have sustained such efforts as I have put forth. As a faculty we work without friction and to the one great end that men may be adequately prepared for a tremendously important life work in the ministry of the Church.

The Conservatory of Music

Professor Frank H. Shaw presents his first annual report as Director of the Conservatory of Music.

There have been an unusual number of changes in the Conservatory Faculty during the year under review. Professor Shaw makes a careful statement of these changes, which will be discussed in connection with the later section of this report dealing with the Faculty.

Professor Shaw points out that the exceptionally large addition to the teaching force of the Conservatory of Music was in the main the result of the decision of the Conservatory Faculty that "all students be required to take private half-hour lessons instead of twenty minute lessons in their major subject, the conviction having steadily and universally grown that only by such a measure could really adequate results be obtained." This has inevitably increased the proportion of Faculty to students.

Further important recommendations were made by the Committee on Admissions appointed by Professor Morrison before his retirement. These recommendations, which were adopted by the Conservatory Faculty, "establish a new standard of requirements whereby the musical preparation, high school scholarship, and personal qualifications of new students can be more adequately determined. These new requirements, it is felt, will appreciably increase the efficiency of the work done by incoming classes. Professor Hall's newly established course, the Introduction to the Arts, designed primarily for new students, will also supply a need long realized in giving a background for musical study."

The remainder of Director Shaw's report is given in full:

It is with pleasure that the arrangement with the Cleveland Orchestra is announced, by which two symphony concerts each semester are insured in the Artist Recital Course. The consequent possibility of arranging programs so that representative orchestral works of the first importance can be regularly heard, makes this new departure of the greatest educational value to our students and offers an exceptional privilege to the community.

The greatest present need of the Conservatory is that of a new building to be devoted exclusively to the needs of the Organ department. At present the accommodations for practice and for a large part of the teaching are quite insufficient, the organs themselves being entirely out of date, and their operation increasingly expensive. In view of the importance of this department, its constantly increasing numbers, the widening range of an organist's activities making him often the most far reaching influence in the community, and rendering his suitable preparation of vital moment, it does not seem an exaggeration to designate as imperative the need for adequate facilities for his training in Oberlin. The present crowded condition of the facilities for practice in Warner Hall for both piano and organ, making it necessary for many students to practise in the one and five o'clock hours, would be materially improved and the entire problem of providing accommodations for the work of the Conservatory most nearly solved by the transfer of the work of the Organ department to a building especially designed for its purpose.

Attention must also be called to the deplorable condition of the seats in Warner Concert Hall. A large number are entirely out of commission and the remainder are rapidly on the way to become so. Unless there is an early improvement in this condition the question of the use of the Hall for general college activities will present serious difficulties.

I do not wish to close this report without a word of heartfelt appreciation of the loyal coöperation and valued help rendered by the members of the Conservatory Faculty in this, my first year as Director.

The Dean of Conservatory Women, Miss Frances G. Nash, thinks that the new plan of limitation of numbers by a system of careful selection of students on the basis of musical talent, character, and scholarship, has already resulted in a Freshman class of unusual promise. There were no serious cases of discipline during the year, and Miss Nash joins with the Dean of Women of the College of Arts and Sciences in paying tribute to the excellent personal work among the women done by the President of the Women's League. The health record of the women shows an improvement over the past two years. As Chairman of the committee in charge of Browning House Miss Nash believes that there is no doubt that our health education together with the policy of immediate isolation of colds and like diseases have brought about beneficial results. Dean Nash adds a brief word concerning the use of the Browning House for the present year.

In the spring it was decided to give up the Forest Street house and move the infirmary to the hospital grounds, using the old house on the grounds for the infirmary for women. But because of unexpected delay in the finishing of Allen Hospital, work on the old house was not begun and Browning House was opened as usual. The Hospital Board now believes that it is wise to postpone moving from the Forest Street house until we have a year's experience with the new hospital, when our needs will be more apparent and we shall know better how to plan for the future. Browning House is at present in charge of Miss Trefethren, of the college class of 1912, who is well known in Oberlin because of excellent work done as village nurse.

The Library

The gifts to the Library have already been mentioned in connection with the other gifts of the year. The changes in the staff of the Library will be discussed in the later section of this report dealing with the Faculty. Professor Root pays deserved tribute to Miss Harriet Maude Henderson of the library staff, whose death occurred during the year under review.

The Library is so central to the whole work of the College that the entire report of the Librarian may be fitly given, nearly in full, for the year 1924-25. The report reviews the work of the different departments of the Library, and brings out some very encouraging prospects.

Additions of the Year

Bound volumes .....	9,026
Unbound volumes .....	2,167
Numbers of magazines .....	20,465
Numbers of newspapers .....	4,321
Maps and charts (estimated).....	250
Photographs, coins, etc. (estimated).....	500
Total . . . . .	36,729

This is a number slightly smaller than the receipts of the previous year, but represents about the average additions for the last ten years.

The Library on September 1, 1925, contained the following:

Bound volumes .....	260,930
Unbound volumes and pamphlets.....	183,064
Unbound volumes of newspapers.....	7,200
Magazines, incomplete unbound volumes...	22,700
Maps, charts, etc. (estimated).....	7,000
Manuscript material—number of filing cases filled .....	276
Coins, prints, photographs, etc. (estimated)	3,650
Total . . . . .	484,820

In addition to this the Library possesses about 132,000 duplicates available for exchange.

Of the additions of the year an exact record can be given only for the bound volumes. Of these 3,925 were purchased; 4,235 were received by gift; and 866 were obtained by exchange with other libraries. As usual, the great majority of books added was of distinctly recent material. 6,889 volumes originated in the 20th century; 2,072 in the 19th century; 59 in the 18th century; 4 in the 17th century. Two valuable manuscripts were earlier, one originating in the 15th century and one in the 14th century.

During my service as Librarian I have seen the price of these older books increase three-fold, and I do not know to what limits they may advance. I wish that we were able to purchase a larger number of them now while they can still be had.

Gifts and Exchanges of the Year

The gifts of the year have been of unusual interest. From the administrative officers we are indebted to President King, Dr. Bohn, and Secretary Jones for a large number of pamphlets, magazines, and books from their respective offices; to members of the faculty, past and present, Professors Bosworth, Hubbard, Kimball, Jones, Metcalf, H. A. Miller, Mosher, Swing, Wager, and Miss Dick, for many valuable additions; to residents of Oberlin, Mrs. A. C. Burgess, Herman Giles, Miss Keffer, Mrs. E. P. Johnson, George Holgate, the Estate of J. B. Vincent, and Mr. J. C. Westervelt, for important additions; to friends outside of Oberlin, the Misses Quaife of Toledo, Mrs. Frederick Bennett Wright of Washington, D. C., Mr. Roger W. Babson of Wellesley, Massachusetts, and the University of Mexico. Were there space it would be a pleasure to enlarge upon the importance of many of these gifts. The grateful thanks of the Library are due to each one of our contributors.

Exchanges have been carried on with the Detroit Public Library, the Garrett Biblical Institute, the New York Public Library, the Pacific Unitarian School for the Ministry, the Universities of Chicago, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, and Oregon, and the State College of Washington.

During the year ten lists made up from our own duplicates, and averaging about two hundred and fifty titles to the list, were sent out to our exchange groups. Practically everything on the lists was taken.

Work of the Catalogue Department

The catalogue department received great assistance when it was possible for a special appropriation to be made in order to purchase additional cases for the shelf list. This has enabled us to equip the room so that hereafter Library of Congress cards can be utilized for the shelf list. A great saving of time and effort results from this, which will show itself as the years go on.

The endeavor to handle all problems of revision as they arose broke down during the year as there was too much new work to enable the necessary time to be taken for the correction of former work. A portion of this correction arises from the decision reached in the catalogue department to apply the three-figure book number where, until last last year, the two-figure number was used. This change, however, seemed to be imperatively necessary in view of the rapid growth of the library, and the difficulty of extending the two-figure numbers to meet the needs of the situation.

While the attempt to do this revision has greatly delayed the cataloguing of the new books and has resulted in a very large number of books waiting to be catalogued, it is hoped that in a year or two the gain from the changes will enable the staff to bring the work again up to date.

It is very difficult, however, to do this because of the increasing demand that comes for the preparation of card catalogues for the various small collections of books which are gradually developing on the campus. During the last year, for example, 1615 cards were made for the catalogue of the Art Museum, 1427 for the catalogue of the Open Shelf Room, 815 for a new catalogue in the Physics Laboratory; 358 additional cards were made for the Children's Room and 39 for the collection of books in the Women's Gymnasium.

While these catalogues are of great service where they are placed, they practically double in many cases the time and labor of cataloguing the books. We have one or two requests now pending for the making of other catalogues for the outside collections.

During the year 7,797 bound volumes and 2,673 pamphlets were catalogued. These required the preparation of 36,610 cards for the main catalogue, and 4,254 for the divisional and departmental catalogues, a total of 40,864. In addition, 5,734 cards were changed because of change in book number or in classification; 6,925 cards received added entry because of new volumes added to the series; and 9,080 of the low written cards were withdrawn in order to be replaced by Library of Congress printed cards.

Revision was due to the changing of 1,430 volumes and 506 pamphlets because of change of book or classification number, and the re-cataloguing of 1,089 volumes and 415 pamphlets. The lesser number of the total indicates the extent to which the work of revision has involved delay.

In addition to these delays, the time of practically one assistant was given to work upon the "Union List of Periodicals," which the libraries of the country are coöperatively preparing. This library is one of the forty libraries of the country undertaking to do this work. The work has progressed from the beginning of the alphabet to the letter "L" and it therefore seems probable that at least two years more will be required to finish the work. There will then be the necessity of a final correction of the work because of additional volumes which have been acquired since the titles were originally checked. When this is done it is planned to print the list, showing for about 160 libraries their possessions in the matter of periodical sets. As between forty and fifty thousand titles are given in the list it will, when completed, make possible for investigators a much easier obtaining of the periodical literature of the past, and ought therefore greatly to facilitate research work.

While we rejoice in all the contribution that is thus being made toward greater future efficiency, we lament the slowing up of the current work and the consequent inevitable delays for the newer material.

Our card catalogue is now estimated to contain 866,000 cards.

Work in the Reference and Circulation Divisions

During the year the Library was open 305 days. The total number of readers in all rooms was 199,436, making an average attendance through the entire year of 653 persons per day. Of course the vacation attendance is much smaller than this, so that the average for the days when the college was in actual session was far greater.

The number of books drawn for outside circulation was 80,780. These books were drawn by 6,139 readers. This number includes: Members of the faculty and their families, 383; college students, 2,270; citizens of Oberlin 3,294; people from outside Oberlin, 174; other libraries, 18. While there is inevitably some duplication in these numbers, since any individual may draw from two or even three rooms, yet after making allowance for this, it is evident that the Library is reaching practically all students and also the great majority of the inhabitants of Oberlin.

Work of the Shelf Department

In this department the greatest problem has been to find new shelves on which to place new books. In spite of the large number which are constantly in circulation, the shelves for a good part of the year have been so crowded as to make it difficult to remove a volume from the shelf. As the additions of each year require something like 1200 feet of new shelving, it can be seen how desperate is our need for additional shelving.

During the year the room formerly used as a binding and mending room was equipped with a two-story stack and our great collection of United States documents was removed from the many places in the Library in which it had been housed and was assembled in this room. This will facilitate the finding of the United States documents and has given temporary relief in a slight degree to the shelving situation.

We have succeeded in placing upon the shelves the many piles of books which were standing on the floor in the aisles, but already, at the very beginning of the new year, we are faced with the problem of where to put the new books.

During the year the Librarian has spent considerable time in planning a possible addition to the Library building, planning it in such a way that it can be erected in successive installments. One section could be erected at a cost of perhaps $30,000, which will accommodate the additions for perhaps the next four or five years. If no one can be found to give us the needed relief, I trust that in the consideration of next year's budget careful attention will be given to this urgent need. Otherwise I do not know how the Library can properly care for its books.

Encouraging Prospects

Many things have occurred during the year to give great encouragement to the Library staff. One of these was a modest but nevertheless substantial addition to the salaries paid the workers. This is enabling us to retain our trained helpers and is making our untrained assistants feel that they are receiving at least as much as their friends and neighbors who are working in the offices and shops of the town.

A second occasion for encouragement was the gift by the Carnegie Corporation of $50,000 to be added to the endowment of the Library. This was given with the understanding that it was to be devoted to new work and accordingly the entire income, estimated at $2,500, has been added to the appropriation for books, the faculty almost unanimously feeling that this was the greatest need of the Library.

Another occasion for encouragement was the contribution by members of the Class of 1889 of a sufficiently large sum of money to enable the Library to purchase the very valuable library of the late Professor F. E. Leonard. This library has not as yet been actually incorporated in the College Library, but its ultimate inclusion is insured by this gift, and will enable us to make our collection of books on physical education one of the best in the country. Doctor Leonard had bought largely and carefully for many years until he had a most representative collection of works in this particular field. He had been extremely careful about adding to the College Library anything in his own library, hoping that ultimately his library would become a part of our general collection. This hope, which seemed in danger of being frustrated, has now been made a reality by the generous gifts of his classmates.

The space available does not warrant my going into a statement of the very many other valuable additions which have come to the Library from a great multitude of friends. Perhaps the greatest satisfaction one experiences in library work is that of seeing some gap in the collection filled through the generosity of a friend. Our Library is steadily being built up in many ways by such generosity and it is to the Librarian a great personal satisfaction to notice the rounding out of the collection in many important fields of thought.

Exchanges have been extensive this year and the publishing of our list of wants in the "Union List of Periodicals" has brought to us very much material which has helped towards the completion of our sets. Dealers are now beginning to offer us material of this sort as the successive installments of the "Union List" are published, and it is greatly to be hoped that the additional money available will enable us to take advantage of these offers during the next two or three years.

A larger force of workers is needed, and the problem of finding a place for the new books is a distressing one, but nevertheless there is so much of encouragement that we are given the needed enthusiasm to work to our utmost limit in order to carry on the task committed to us.

Other General Officers

There remains to be reviewed the work of various other officers of the College, who have to do with certain aspects of the work of the entire institution: the Director of the Men's Gymnasium, the Director of Athletics, the Director of the Women's Gymnasium, the Chairman of the Hospital Board, the College Physician, the Director of Recreation, the Secretary of the Bureau of Appointments, the Director of the Summer Session, and the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds.

The Director of the Men's Gymnasium, Dr. Whitelaw R. Morrison, reports regarding the work in Hygiene and Physical Education. A new plan was followed in the year 1924-25 in the instruction in Hygiene. The number of students taking General Hygiene the first semester was 57. The second semester the plan of having the men and women meet in separate classes for the work in Individual Hygiene was followed and proved very satisfactory. The required work in Physical Education continued about as usual. The students showed real interest in the work and the morale of the classes was good.

Dr. Morrison called attention last year to the program for the men who for some reason or other are unable to take the regular class work. He feels that the problem presented by these men, while not entirely solved has nevertheless been cleared up to a certain extent. "The number of special cases has been reduced to the minimum by asking more of these men to take the regular class work, with certain modifications. Most of the remaining cases have been taken care of by substituting Hygiene for the requirement in Physical Education."

The practice of giving all the new men entering college a physical examination was continued as usual. By suspending the classes in Physical Education 1, and having all the men on the Physical Education staff concentrate their time and effort on the work of examinations, the Department was able to complete the examinations the first week of school. Two of the town physicians, Dr. L. H. Trufant and Dr. P. C. Colegrove, very kindly assisted the Physical Education staff. 234 men were examined and definite findings recorded.

Besides the medical examinations, Dr. Morrison speaks of medical conferences with the men. "There has been a gradual increase in the number of voluntary conferences with the men regarding their medical examination and their health. This is encouraging, because the giving of routine examinations is only of statistical value unless the examination is followed up and something done to help the student regain his normal condition and to increase his interest in matters pertaining to his health." Dr. Morrison, on account of lack of time, was not able to continue this work with all the men except in the first semester. The extent of the work is indicated by the fact that there were 532 office calls during the first semester. The appointment of the College Physician will give most valuable help at this point.

Dr. Morrison continued his work of taking care of the varsity athletes. "This responsibility included a special examination and assisting and advising in the treatment of athletic injuries and conditions. Two special clinics were held for the purpose of vaccinating the men against smallpox. The staff of the Physical Education department coöperated with Dr. W. A. McIntosh, Health Commissioner of the Lorain County Board of Health, in carrying out this measure. 93 men were vaccinated."

The continued large use of Warner Gymnasium is shown by these facts: that 604 men out of 692 in all departments were enrolled in the Gymnasium. In addition to these, 11 members of the Faculty, 13 Business College students, 1 citizen, and 57 boys of Oberlin were enrolled in the Gymnasium. The usual miscellaneous demands upon the building continued through the year.

In an interesting appendix to his report Dr. Morrison suggests the possibility, in view of the erection of the hospital and the appointment of a College Physician, of more completely unifying the Physical Education and health interests into one general department. It would seem well worth while to make a careful study of the possibilities at this point.

Professor C. W. Savage, Director of Athletics and Senior Professor of the department of Physical Education, also feels the value of the completer unification of health and physical education interests, discussed by Dr. Morrison :

The work of any department of Physical Education is of necessity closely knit up with the health interests of the student body. It is therefore one of the great advances of the year 1924-25 in Physical Education that the construction of the college hospital, with infirmary and dispensary, was undertaken and that a full time college physician received an appointment, as strongly recommended in my report for 1923-24. The instruction efficiency of the entire college and the work of our department in particular will be greatly strengthened by these advances. To Dr. W. R. Morrison of our staff, as chairman, and to his committee on "Health and Hospitals" is due a special word of appreciation for the heavy extra burdens carried through the year in connection with the furnishing and equipment of the hospital.

Professor Savage's report of the successful erection of the new stadium should be given in full:

Another achievement of the year was the launching of the campaign to secure better seating equipment at our athletic field. The temporary bleachers, after a dozen years of service, were being maintained at heavy expense and were not only inadequate but becoming unsafe. The great Case football game on November 1st, with over 7,000 spectators, with seating capacity of only 5,500, clearly demonstrated the need of immediate action. Due largely to the optimism and zeal of Secretary G. M. Jones and the coöperation of the President, the approval of the faculty and trustees was obtained to launch a campaign for funds and undertake the construction of a portion of what may some day become a beautiful but modest stadium. Before the year closed sufficient funds were in sight to warrant the construction of 4/7 of the unit that will eventually skirt the west side of football field and cinder track. The Osborn Engineering Company of Cleveland was commissioned to draw up plans and specifications, and in June, 1925, the contract was let to the Van Blarcom Company of Cleveland for the construction of a concrete stand with rest rooms underneath and provisions for other facilities as soon as funds are available.

The present structure extends from the 18-yard line at the south to the 23-yard line on the north. It seats 2,977 spectators, with additional press stand capacity of 58, or a total of 3,035.

It is to be earnestly hoped that means may soon be available for the realization of many of the other needs at the athletic field mentioned in my report last year, such as entrance building and gateways, ticket booths, fence or wall, and better upkeep. Additional facilities are also greatly needed under the present stand. The completion of the block of tennis courts, the provision of rooms for handball and squash racquets, the widening of the straightaway of the track and the general reconditioning of courts, playing fields, and track are pressing needs.

Professor Savage reports that 7 men were graduated from the major in Physical Education, and all but two have accepted teaching positions in Physical Education. Mr. Henry C. Craine of the class of 1925 was awarded "The Hitchcock Fellowship in Physical Education" at Amherst College and has taken up his work as a graduate student and assistant in the department of Physical Education at Amherst College.

Professor Savage adds this word as to the work in the department for the past year:

As to the efficiency and strength of the work in our department for the past year I am at present somewhat mystified. In spite of the strong interest in the Physical Education major among our men in 1923-24 only five of last year's Sophomore men have elected our major. This condition is disappointing and deserves our closest scrutiny.

Professor Savage pays warm tribute to Mr. W. L. Hughes, the very successful football coach of last year.

The year in intramural athletics was a good one, and Professor Savage thinks there can be no question that a larger proportion of our men than ever before participated in and enjoyed the benefits of intramural sports. Concerning the football season Professor Savage says:

Under the splendid coaching of Mr. Hughes our football team established a new Oberlin record, that of playing an entire season without a tie or a defeat. Eight Ohio Conference games were played and eight were won. No other Oberlin team had ever won more than seven Conference games in a single season. No other Ohio Conference college had a 1924 record to compare with this achievement. The complete restoration of a high morale in the squad by Mr. Hughes was the great factor in this record.

The cross country team was under the direction of Coach L. D. McPhee and made a fine showing. In basketball eight Ohio Conference games were won and only one was lost. In track athletics "it is quite unusual for Oberlin to place as low as fifth in the State meet. It shows that our track team was this year far below our usual standard. There were, however, two sterling performances by members of our Oberlin team in the 'Big Six' meet. C. W. Hunsche, of the class of 1927, tied with Hill of Wesleyan in setting a new record for the mile, and Robert C. Williams, of the class of 1925, our track captain, won the half-mile run in one minute and fifty-six seconds, a new Oberlin and a new 'Big Six' record."

The intercollegiate baseball season was one of the most disastrous that Oberlin has ever experienced. The poor record was undoubtedly due to a dearth of high-class material and a lack of morale on the squad. The intercollegiate tennis team was one of the best in recent years. A schedule of seven matches was played and all but two matches were won.

Professor Savage's financial statement records the very gratifying payment of the balance due to Oberlin College on the athletic field, incurred in the years 1913-1915, $14,085.

The intercollegiate account once more carried the customary annual deficit of the intramural program, amounting to $846.41. A long-standing charge against the athletic field, for drainage, paving, and taxes, of $383.88, was paid off, and an unusual expense of $1,251.30 for new bleacher seats for Warner Gymnasium was incurred. In spite of these heavy charges, the end of the year saw a balance of $2,914.30 to be applied to the incurred obligation on the stadium.

Professor Savage thus sums up the needs of the department:

The needs of the department remain as last year, with the exception of the old indebtedness, which has been cleared away.

1. An additional instructor to more vigorously promote intramural and recreational activities.
2. An instructor who could devote a large share of his time to students who are defective or partially incapacitated.
3. A larger appropriation for intramural sports.
4. The steady extension of facilities at the athletic field.
5. A new gymnasium and swimming pool.

As to intercollegiate athletics at large Professor Savage fears that commercialized and subsidized athletics are getting more firmly intrenched in our colleges and universities.

Oberlin is to be congratulated that Professor Savage has been reëlected for the nineteenth year to membership in the American Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee.

Dr. Gertrude E. Moulton, Director of the Women's Gymnasium, emphasizes, as she must, the needs of the department of Physical Education for Women:

The needs of the department of Physical Education are the same in kind as those of previous years, but they have increased in intensity. We are still using the gymnasium for credit classes to such an extent that we can not encourage hygienic, remedial or recreational work for those who are not able to go into the regular classes. Some of our regular classes have to meet at irregular times because it is impossible to find a regular hour when the gymnasium is available. Most of the year we have to do night work in the gymnasium every night, having two classes there part of the time. Because of the crowded conditions, we are rather lenient in the substitution of the work done elsewhere for the work here, even when it does not seem to be the thing that would work to the best advantage of the student. Our classes are still too large for good work. As there is no entrance requirement in Physical Education, our classes are made up of well trained and untrained, of weak and strong, of slow and quick, and because of our crowded conditions, we are unable to divide our classes according to strength and ability. The locker and shower rooms are entirely inadequate, and we are put in the position of advising showers after work, but not providing facilities even for those who desire to take them. In our field house the girls dress in the parlors and kitchen, as well as the dressing room, and not more than 12, even with careful supervision of the changes, can get a shower, although sometimes there are as many as 40 who would like to. Even our field is crowded. The hockey field is still marked in the fall from the baseball practice of the spring. The large numbers who want to learn golf can not begin to be accommodated without danger of serious accidents to others. I would urge that the location of the new women's gymnasium be adjacent to Galpin field, and that the purchase be made, when possible, of the land lying north of our present property. We have a long waiting list of those who would like to take swimming. Our cottage on the lake is too small to accommodate all the senior class at one time.

The needs for the near future would seem to me to fall into two main classes:

1. Material Needs.

- a. The erection of a gymnasium adjacent to our field, and adequate to care for our present classes in groups of not more than 25 or 30, with opportunity for each girl to have corrective work when the case demanded. This building should provide opportunity for all to learn and practice those activities which mean development of "team play" characteristics, as well as those small group activities which may be carried into later life as absorbing recreation. This should mean swimming pool, basketball courts, volley ball courts, skating rinks, handball courts, gymnasia, etc.

- b. An increase in our field to provide for at least two good holes of golf, and two baseball diamonds which do not interfere with the hockey field, and at least two outdoor basketball courts.
- c. An increase in the size of our camp, with some provision for easy transportation between Oberlin and the camp.

2. Aims.

It should be our policy, I believe, to take a share, as a department, in the investigations and experiments going on in the Physical Education world, in an attempt to make Physical Education more nearly fill its place as an excellent means—perhaps the best means—of helping girls to live at their best.

We should give every girl, I believe, training in some game or similarly recreative activity until she has developed some proficiency in it, and consequently can use it to her advantage. This should not come merely as a voluntary thing, time for which must be taken from the undergraduate's leisure, but should be a part of our regular Physical Education period, so that every girl is reached. Every girl should have individual attention and help in those conditions which she needs to correct and develop.

(The need at this point is suggested by the fact that Dr. Moulton had, during the year, from 93 to 137 office calls per month for illness or physical difficulty.)

The whole organization will be improved, I believe, by dividing the drudgery of, and the responsibility for the less desirable parts of the work fairly evenly among the teachers, and by giving each teacher the opportunity to direct a part of the activities in which she is especially interested.

In order to do our best work with our groups of girls, we need more help. Especially, we need a full time stenographer and clerical worker. We also need a full time custodian of properties, and caretaker of the building. Student care of grounds is unsatisfactory and expensive. It might be possible to have one who was responsible to the office of the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, part of whose duties were to keep the tennis courts in shape, keep the nets mended, mark out the fields for sports, keep the grass cut, flood the skating rink, etc. All of these things would make for more efficient work for the good of the student body.

Dr. R. W. Bradshaw, the newly elected College Physician, at the President's request makes a brief statement of his hopes and aims as College Physician in charge of the student clinic.

He, too, with Dr. Morrison and Professor Savage, feels the possibilities of united health work under the new conditions made possible by the new hospital:

It is my most ardent desire to have at Oberlin an organization which shall protect the health of the student and shall at the same time educate him in the science of disease prevention. I hope that this division of the college work may be conducted always with the same dignity and in harmony with the lofty standards which characterize the work in the other departments. I hope that the service may always function in accord with the best teachings of preventive medicine and shall be classed among the best organizations of this kind in the country.

The Health Service should have for its slogan, prevention of disease and education in modern health measures. It should be the aim of this division of the College to protect the health of the student while in college and to send out at the end of four years men and women who have learned something useful about how to prevent disease, who know enough about disease and prevention to be able to take an active and intelligent part in their various communities in working out the public health problems that are being presented everywhere.

The systematic instruction in hygiene and preventive medicine in the course in Hygiene should be supplemented by a certain amount of properly regulated health publicity in the Oberlin College periodicals. The students should have access to health magazines of the better sort and books dealing with health problems. It does not seem to me to be overstressing the question to have a special section in the library reserved for this sort of literature. Personal instruction to students visiting the clinic with their various maladies should be a part of the college physician's duties. The various reports of the college physician with study and interpretation of the statistics should be interesting and instructive to the whole student body. There should be close coördination with the department of Physical Education; each can be of great benefit to the other. The College Health Service should also work in harmony with the Department of Psychology. In many cases that come to the college physician no physical basis for the complaint can be assigned even after careful physical examination. A large proportion of such cases could be helped or cured if they might have the attention of someone interested in abnormal psychology. The college health service should be allied with the Local Board of Health, the American Student Health Association and the Association of College Physicians.

The entrance physical examinations so admirably conducted by Doctor Morrision and Doctor Moulton may in the future be followed by a physical examination annually or at least at the end of the college course, to determine the extent to which recommendations regarding individual physical defects have been carried out and to discover the effect of four years of college life and training on the physical condition of the student.

In the student clinic all ambulatory cases should be treated and the college physician should have daily knowledge of all cases of sickness among the students, whether under his care or not. All cases reported should be seen immediately by the college physician, visiting nurse, or a town physician. This method of checking daily the health of the students is now operating very efficiently among the women and it is hoped that this same system may be applied to the men in a satisfactory way. It will be more difficult to make this method effective among the men because they are so widely scattered and there is no one who can be held responsible for reporting sickness when it occurs, especially in a small group or in an isolated case. With immediate reporting of all diseases, communicable diseases will come to the attention of the college physician at their onset and proper methods of isolation and protection of all contacts can be instituted before the outbreak becomes epidemic. Early and proper care of all medical and surgical conditions arising among the students should appreciably decrease the absences from classes and markedly increase the efficiency of the student. Detailed records of all illness should be kept on file, studied and compared with similar statistics from other institutions with a view to increasing the efficiency of the department and its usefulness to the student body.

Students should be taught the value of artificial immunization to diseases and should be urged to submit to prophylaxis against smallpox, Typhoid, Diphtheria, and Goitre. Prophylaxis against Smallpox should be required for admission to college.

There should be regular sanitary inspection of the College kitchens and recommendations regarding the sanitary handling of utensils, food and garbage. All college buildings including boarding houses should receive recognition by the College Health Service for complying with modern principles of lighting and ventilation. In coördination with the local board of health there should be a check on the sanitary condition of all food, and especially the milk used by the college. The food used in the college boarding houses should answer the requirements set by modern scientific knowledge of diet.

It seems that now is the opportune time for the College to embark on a well balanced and aggressive health program. This program should include the activities mentioned above. For the present the student clinic is the popular branch of the work and consumes most of the time of the College Physician. The work should, however, expand as opportunity offers, each branch being given consideration in proportion to its importance. Such a program will protect the student's health and relieve the parent's anxiety, will increase the student's efficiency and will produce students better equipped to live and serve their fellowmen. It will also establish Oberlin as a college of first rank in assuming her responsibilities in the light of the modern world-wide Public Health movement.

The Director of Recreation, Mrs. Ellen Birdseye Hatch, in her survey of the social affairs of the year, makes certain recommendations which deserve careful consideration by the Committee on Recreational and Social Program and by the Faculty. She feels sure that the crowding of so many social affairs into the first months of the college year leaves the average Freshman with an all too vague idea of the energy and time he needs for study. She questions also whether we can profitably attempt two all-college dances in such close succession as they now occur in celebrating "Dad's and Mother's Day" and "Home-coming Day."

The Director feels sure that a step in advance was made this year in having a fitting Christmas Carol service in place of the boisterous affairs of the preceding years, although the weather prevented the service being as successful as it otherwise might have been. During Christmas vacation the recreation hall was open in the evening and a very successful Christmas party and a New Year's dance were the main social events of the vacation. The vacation parties are always very democratic and the spirit of the group is always good. It is a pleasure, the Director feels, to help entertain them.

The alumni varsity basketball game with dance after the game was felt not to be successful this year from the standpoint of the dance. The crowd was not at all representative of the students or the Alumni. This dance does not offer any particular appeal to the Alumni, and the students have enough dancing without making this a traditional affair. To secure attendance at the game it is not wise to add a dance as an attraction.

The Junior Prom and the Senior Prom, the Director feels, were both unusually well managed. The College is especially fortunate in being able to use the Art Building for these more formal parties. The beauty of the building immediately gives a background for a dignified and charming affair, doing away with the need of further costly decorations.

The Recreation Committee have frequent meetings during the year "with much discussion of policies and consideration of special requests. Two important regulations made by this Committee were in regard to expenditures for dances. The Committee voted that no boarding house or group might pay more than $75.00 for an orchestra for their dance. They also ruled that the price of Prom tickets should not exceed $5.00. The policy of the Recreation Committee is to consistently refuse any extension of time for social affairs beyond eight o'clock during the week, except the regular extension on Saturday night." The Director urges again the pressing need of a better recreation hall. As to the kind of dancing, the Director feels, notwithstanding reports to the contrary, that on the whole the style of dancing of the Oberlin students is good. Faulty posture, natural awkwardness and ignorance make some of the dancing unattractive, and it is of course true here, as in other parts of the college life, that a few students offend purposely in much that they do. The Director welcomes all constructive criticism and suggestions, for the problem of student morale belongs to all the Faculty and not simply to a few executive officers.

The report of the Secretary of the Bureau of Appointments, Miss Ivanore V. Barnes, summarizes the work of the Bureau for the year:

Scheduled interviews of fifteen to thirty minutes were held with all Seniors who wished to use the services of the Bureau for the purpose of supplementing information given on the registration card, of giving the candidates suggestions as to ways of making contacts with possible positions, and of making certain that they knew the type of service they might ask of the Bureau. These interviews were decidedly helpful to me and, I believe, they were of benefit to some of the Seniors. The arrangement was time-saving, because it eliminated a large number of shorter interviews and made it possible to docket the day's work. With the help and coöperation of Professors Miller and Larson the Bureau made information about teaching requirements more accessible to underclassmen and Seniors. Mr. Larson's pamphlet, "Information for Prospective Teachers," has been very helpful in giving the students a clearer idea of the various methods of teacher certification and in stimulating them to learn the qualifications they will be expected to meet in the localities in which they would like to teach. In February a complete file of the requirements for teacher certification in the various states was made, and it has been used extensively by underclassmen, Seniors, and Faculty members.

The Bureau succeeded this year in actually collecting nearly all of the recommendations for students by the first of May. For having complete sets of recommendations for candidates at the time when the majority of positions are open, is one of the most necessary factors in efficient placement.

The following notes will give an approximate measure of the volume of work done during the year:

Three hundred thirteen graduates made use of the Bureau; 223 of the 228 Seniors who graduated in June and at the close of summer school completed registration; 12 underclassmen who needed to work one or two years before completing college registered in order that they might have confidential letters forwarded by us; 839 personal interviews of ten minutes or more in length were held; 1,541 sets of credentials were sent out—763 for graduates, 778 for Seniors and the few underclassmen registered with the Bureau; 1,186 letters were received, 1,584 letters were sent out; 36 school administrators and employers interviewed the Bureau personally.

The increasing use of the Bureau by Alumni is notable.

The Director of the Summer Session, Professor S. R. MacLennan, reports an attendance of 185,—10 less than the preceding year. Of this 185, 86 were men and 99 women. The number of instructors engaged was 18, all members of the regular Oberlin College Faculty. And with only two exceptions the staff was composed of members of full professorial rank. There can be no question of the very high quality of work done in the summer session.

The financial statement for the session shows that the School was obliged to take over the credit balance from previous years, amounting to $2,365.86 and leaving a small credit of $208.09. The Director feels that the allowance for salaries in the summer session ought to be increased and that the question ought to be raised whether the summer session should not participate in the regular budget of the College.

The report of Mr. D. E. Lyon, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, briefly summarizes the work of the department of building and grounds. Preceding sections of this report have already brought into review much of the work in charge of the Superintendent. But attention may be called to a few remaining points:

The local lighting company have made quite extensive changes in their power lines connecting with our buildings, which have given us both better service and better looking equipment. The coal cost at the heating plant was decreased again this year, effecting a saving of about $500 on this year's supply. The college market handled food supplies amounting to over $90,000 on an overhead of 7%, which again shows the efficient handling of this department by Mr. Beckett.

The department still needs more space for its shop and the storage of supplies. Another man, too, is needed as a stock clerk to take charge of small orders and the issuing of supplies. This, I think, would help stop the leak that is inevitable when the supplies are issued by so many different people. Fireproof storage for blueprints, drawings and other records of the department is badly needed.

The Work of the President

During the year 1924-25 the President continued his teaching—a two-hour required course with college Seniors through the first semester, and a three-hour required course with theological Seniors throughout the year. These courses made an inevitably heavy demand upon time and strength, especially when taken in connection with the constantly growing administrative load. It became increasingly clear to the President that under these circumstances he could best serve the College by giving up all teaching for the short remainder of his term of service, and devote himself exclusively to administration. He consequently made this recommendation to the General Council. The Council approved the plan and in turn recommended to the Trustees that the President be released from further teaching. The Trustees at their meeting in June adopted the recommendation of the Council, and in consequence, with the current year the President for the first time in forty-six years is carrying a year of college service without teaching. As the teaching of the President ends with the year under review, it may not be inappropriate to say a further word concerning the teaching aspect of his work. Except for the years when he has been absent on leave for study or travel or war service the President has been in active teaching since 1879, teaching, in order, the subjects of Latin, Mathematics, Philosophy, and Theology. It is of some interest to note that the College has had only three Professors of Theology since the organization of work in the theological department in 1835: Dr. Charles G. Finney, Professor of Systematic Theology from 1835 to 1858—23 years; Dr. James H. Fairchild, a pupil of Dr. Finney, Associate Professor of Theology from 1859 to 1869 and Professor of Theology from 1869 to 1898, carrying the work in Systematic Theology, thus, for 38 full years; and the recent incumbent of the chair, a pupil of President Fairchild, holding the Chair of Theology from 1897 to 1925,—28 years of service. The chair of Theology, thus, covers 89 years of service, and the entire period from 1835 to the present. The years of graduate connection of all kinds with the College exceed the 89 years. President Finney had 40 years of connection with the College, President Fairchild 63 years—a record never to be surpassed—and the present incumbent 46 years to date. Together the three teachers of Theology had 149 years of graduate connection. It happened that all three occupants of the chair of Theology also served as Presidents—President Finney from 1851 to 1865 (14 years), President Fairchild from 1866 to 1889 (23 years), and the present incumbent from 1902 to date; the three administrations covering 60 years.

In giving up his teaching the President is glad to welcome as his successor in the chair of Theology Dr. Walter M. Horton, who brings a rare preparation to this work. Dr. Horton will also carry the two-hour course for college Seniors in the Christian Religion which the President has taught for many years.

After the long campaign for endowment and buildings in 1923, and in the absence of Dean Cole, it seemed clear to the President that for the year 1924-25 at least his prime work should be devoted to the inner life of the College. The experience of the year has only confirmed that judgment; although it has required the setting aside of many invitations to share in noteworthy causes outside of Oberlin. That the budget for the current year should be more than $100,000 larger than that of last year means that much study has had to be given to enlarging the teaching and administrative staff and bettering the equipment of the College. The proposal to begin the distribution of the estate of Mr. Charles M. Hall at a fairly early date puts a new emphasis on the need of much earnest study of the budgets of the next few years. It should of course be kept in mind first of all that it will require about two years to clear up the entire indebtedness of the College. But in the meantime much study should be given to at least a few of the most urgent buildings. This is not to say that building plans should entirely absorb our attention, but it does recognize, in part at least, how imperative at some points our building needs are.

The Chapel services for the year under review continued much as they have in the last three or four years. It is perhaps not necessary to go into details concerning these exercises this year.

FACULTY

Deaths

An unusual number of deaths have occurred in the ranks of the college staff during the year under review.

Dr. Albert Temple Swing, Emeritus Professor of Church History in the Graduate School of Theology, died September 21, 1925. Professor Swing was born at Bethel, Clermont County, Ohio, January 18, 1849. He was enrolled in the preparatory and college departments of Oberlin from 1869 to 1874, receiving the degree of A.B. from Oberlin College in 1874. He was a well recognized leader in the college life of his time and a brilliant student. He received his B.D. from Yale Divinity School in 1877. He was in the regular ministry of the Congregational church from 1878 to 1890, when he resigned to go abroad for study in the field of Church History at the universities of Berlin and Halle-Wittenberg. In 1893 he was called to the chair of Church History in Oberlin Theological Seminary and continued in active service for 23 years. He gave himself devotedly to the interests of the Seminary and won the warm affection both of his colleagues in the Faculty and of his pupils. He had been emeritus professor since 1916. Last year Professor Swing took great satisfaction in working out with Mrs. Swing his long-cherished plan for the Mead-Swing Foundation in the form of endowment amounting to $30,000. Of this sum $28,000 has already been put in trust for the purposes of the Foundation. This money is to be allowed to accumulate until a total of $30,000 is held in the trusteeship. Half of the income is thereafter to be used to bring to Oberlin eminent preachers for courses of sermons or addresses, and "to bring in like manner distinguished scientists to Oberlin." The Mead-Swing Foundation will meet a great need and render a rich service to the college life through the years. It makes a noble memorial and bears witness to the care and breadth of vision with which Professor Swing had studied some of the larger and deeper needs of the College and Seminary he loved, and to the great generosity with which he had planned for them. The rare hospitality of the Swing home was illustrative of Professor Swing's unusual friendship-making power, revealed in so many relations. In his life and work is exemplified once again the way in which the spirit of the College is chiefly enriched generation after generation by the significant personalities builded into it. As Professor George H. Mead says of Professor Swing:

I have never known a man who so punctiliously recognized and met the responsibilities which he felt that he had assumed, by being the personality that he was. It was a punctiliousness which was tempered by generosity and modesty. It expressed the finest type of individualism.

Professor George C. Hastings, Professor of Pianoforte in the Conservatory of Music, died March 31, 1925. Professor Hastings had 29 years of connection with the College, four as a student and twenty-five as a teacher. Director Shaw has fitly said of Professor Hastings:

Fitted for his work by exceptionally fine training, a musical talent of the first order and distinguished personal qualifications, Mr. Hastings' teaching was marked from the beginning by a rare combination of ardent devotion and unsparing criticism, which inspired unusual enthusiasm in his students and resulted in a succession of notably brilliant graduates. His keen interest in all branches of the work of the Conservatory and his unswerving loyalty to the highest standards in all its departments made his influence everywhere conspicuous and his judgment highly valued. In his death the Conservatory suffered an irreparable loss long to be felt and deeply to be lamented.

Mrs. Helen M. Rice died January 18, 1925. Her teaching at Oberlin ran parallel to that of her husband, Professor Fenelon B. Rice, Director of the Conservatory of Music. They began their work together here at Oberlin in 1869, Professor Rice teaching for 32 years and carrying the work of Director for 30 years, 1871 to 1901. Mrs. Rice taught vocal music from 1869 to 1903, a period of 34 years, continuing her own teaching for two years after Professor Rice's death. For 32 years, thus, Professor and Mrs. Rice stood together at the very heart of the Conservatory, building their lives unstintedly into that great department, and largely creating it in its standards and ideals. Rice Memorial Hall, erected in 1910, was fittingly named in commemoration of the life service of Professor and Mrs. Rice. Back of all her teaching and responsibility lay a vital personality of high Christian spirit, brilliant qualities, marked strength of character, quick insight, keen sense of humor, freedom from sentimentalism, and deep devotion to duty.

The death of Professor Dwight C. Rice, a brother of Professor Fenelon B. Rice, also occurred in the year under review. Professor Rice died on January 1, 1925, at his home in Los Angeles. He was instructor in Pianoforte at Oberlin for five years, 1883 to 1888. He was a teacher of Piano and Voice for sixty years, and taught in a number of colleges. He continued his teaching until June, 1924.

Miss Hattie Maude Henderson of the library staff died in Oberlin January 17, 1925. Miss Henderson graduated from Oberlin in 1903, and after a year of teaching in the south was appointed assistant in the college library in 1904 and continued in that service until her death. Her scholarship was of a very high quality. The Librarian says of her:

Miss Henderson was a most conscientious member of the staff, always at her place at the appointed moment, giving herself without reserve, ready to work overtime if necessary in an emergency. She was steadily promoted, and at the time of her death was in charge of the cataloguing of all serials. Her memory will long be cherished by the library staff.

Miss Kathryn Louise Pfaff, Secretary to the Assistant to the President, died on February 16, 1925. She had been a valued member of the administrative staff and had won warm recognition and friendship from the members of that staff.

Although Mrs. Edward I. Bosworth was not a member of the Oberlin Faculty, it will seem inappropriate to no one that her death should be mentioned in this connection. Mrs. Bosworth graduated from Oberlin College with the class of 1889. Her married life of thirty-three years was spent in Oberlin, the confidant and inspiration of her children, sharing with deep sympathy in all Dr. Bosworth's significant work as teacher, administrator and author, winning warm friends in community and college, and almost incidentally furnishing a prized home center through the years for a number of student women helping in the home. Many college women found in Mrs. Bosworth their ideal of womanhood,—beautiful, gracious, faithful in her friendships, and understanding in her sympathies. She was a richly gifted woman, impressing her friends with an extraordinary sincerity,—a simple, straightforward sense of truth, coupled with an equally marked appreciation of the beautiful. She died December 31, 1924.

Faculty Changes

The various changes which have occurred in the Faculty during the year covered by this report, as authorized by the Trustees, or by the Prudential Committee, acting ad interim for the Trustees, are here presented, arranged by departments.

Mrs. Kathleen Cameron Cooley, Assistant in the Office of the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, for one year. (Prudential Committee, Sept. 24, 1925.)

The record of the faculty changes of the year follows the usual order. Comment is confined to those of professorial rank. The changes as presented are arranged by departments, but the discussion of the different classes of changes follows each class through by departments; that is, the retirements in all departments, leaves of absence, resignations, etc., are grouped together. This double treatment is intended to give the advantages of both the arrangement by departments and the arrangement by the kind of change involved.

There is only one retirement as professor emeritus, that of Professor Charles Beebe Martin, Professor of Greek Literature and Greek Archaeology in the College of Arts and Sciences, after 45 years of service. Professor Martin carries with him the warm love and admiration of his colleagues and pupils. He has done most valuable service in the large contribution he has made to the department of the History and Appreciation of Art. It will be very difficult indeed to fill his place. The Board of Trustees passed this minute at the time of voting his retirement:

The Board of Trustees hereby gladly affirm their appreciation of his long and faithful service in its interests as Tutor in the Academy, then as Instructor and full Professor of Greek and Greek Art, bringing to his task a painstaking and accurate scholarship, a keen appreciation and wide knowledge of classic art and an insistence on the highest ideals of character and workmanship on the part of his pupils, who are numbered by the thousands in his forty-five years of Faculty responsibility. And they wish for him the happiest years of long and well-earned leisure for fruitful reflection and travel as his name goes upon our honored pension roll.

Six teachers are included in those entering on work after leave of absence, four professors in the College of Arts and Sciences and two professors in the Conservatory of Music, and one member of the Library staff.

Leaves of absence were granted for the current year to an unusual number of professors—seven in the College of Arts and Sciences; two for semester absence in the Graduate School of Theology; and two in the Conservatory of Music, one for a year's absence and one for a semester.

The resignations include those of the President in his teaching capacity in the College of Arts and Sciences and in the Graduate School of Theology, of Professor Rogers as Acting-Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences during Dean Cole's absence, of Assistant Professor Shaver and of Acting Assistant Professor Hughes of the College of Arts and Sciences; in the Graduate School of Theology, that of Dr. Hannah; and in the Conservatory of Music that of Professor Frampton. These teachers carry with them to their fields of service the warm esteem of their colleagues.

There are 15 well deserved promotions in the professorial rank in the College of Arts and Sciences; 13 of these promotions are to permanent full professorships. In the general administrative staff there are three important promotions.

The reappointments are in regular course and call for no special comment.

The new appointments of professorial rank in the College of Arts and Sciences include Mr. Jaszi, Mr. Lothrop, Mr. Burtt, Mr. Rakestraw, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Downs, Mr. McLaughlin, Mr. MacEachron and Mr. Means. Brief statements concerning their academic records follow:

Oscar Jaszi holds his doctorate from the University of Budapest. He has also studied in Germany, France, England, and Italy. He organized and conducted the Sociological Society and the Free School for Social Sciences; for nearly two decades he edited the Hungarian sociological review "The Twentieth Century." He has been in the State Department of Agriculture; also in Count Karolyi's cabinet as Minister of Racial Minorities. In 1912 he lectured at the University of Transylvania; later was Professor of Sociology at the University of Budapest. He lectured extensively at colleges and universities throughout the United States during the year 1923-24. He is a productive scholar, highly esteemed by his fellow workers both in Europe and America. Professor Giddings of Columbia, for example, says of him: "Professor Jaszi is a man of real distinction, one whose personality and character can be relied on, gracious and likeable, and a true scholar, whose writings are contributions in his field."

Alfred Peirce Lothrop is a graduate of Oberlin of the class of 1906 and took his A.M. in Oberlin in 1907. He received his Ph.D. from Columbia in 1909. He was an assistant in biological chemistry at Columbia while studying for his doctor's degree. He was an instructor in Columbia from 1909 to 1912 and an associate professor from 1912 to 1914. He has held a professorship at Queens University, Kingston, Ontario, since 1914. For the year 1921-22 he was absent on leave from Queens University, teaching at Oberlin in our department of Chemistry. His work was most satisfactory and he now accepts a permanent appointment with Oberlin.

Carl Davis Burt is a graduate of Williams College in the class of 1893, and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He has also had graduate work in the Harvard Graduate School of Education, particularly during summer sessions. From 1895 to 1917 he taught in the High School of Lowell, Mass., finally becoming Assistant Head Master. In 1917 Mr. Burt was called to the Principalship of the Arlington, Mass., High School, holding this position for four years. He then went to the Principalship of the Cleveland Heights High School, which position he held for four years. Mr. Burt is a man of force and decision. His experience as a high school man fits him admirably for the particular work for which he is brought to Oberlin, that of supervising the work in Practice Teaching.

Norris Watson Rakestraw is a graduate of Leland Stanford University, 1916, receiving his A.M. in 1917 and his Ph.D. in 1921. He also had some work at Toledo University and the University of Michigan. He spent the summer of 1923 and the year 1924 in visiting eastern and foreign universities, especially Yale, the University of Cambridge, and the University of Copenhagen. The purpose of these visits was to find out at first hand the type of work being done in Chemistry at those institutions, and to become better acquainted with the people doing the research work. Mr. Rakestraw has been an instructor at Leland Stanford University, in charge of a large proportion of the laboratory work in General Chemistry, and during several terms has also conducted lecture sections. He has the most cordial endorsement of his associates as a teacher of elementary chemistry. His research interests are along the line of biochemistry, with special reference to the chemistry of blood.

Ben W. Lewis received his undergraduate education at Mt. Pleasant Normal College and at the University of Michigan. He has also been a graduate student at the University of Michigan for four years. He received his A.M. degree in 1923, and expects to complete the requirements for the Ph.D. degree next summer. His teaching experience is that of an instructor in Economics at the University of Michigan during the past three years. Mr. Lewis has the most cordial endorsements of his teachers at the University of Michigan as to ability, character, and personality. He is a man of unusual intellectual capacity, and is temperamentally a scholar, having excelled at every stage in his training. As a teacher he has shown those qualities which make for a high standard of scholarship and the almost universal approval of his students.

Mr. Lynwood G. Downs received his A.B. degree in 1914 from Cornell University. Since that time he has studied at the University of Berlin, the University of Heidelberg, Cornell University, from which he received the A.M. degree in 1915, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Minnesota. Mr. Downs also served with the American Expeditionary force from 1917 to 1918 in France. Upon his return from France he was made Instructor in German at the University of Minnesota, and at the same time carried on work toward the Ph.D. degree, all the requirements for which are completed with the exception of the dissertation, which is nearly finished. Mr. Downs has the most cordial recommendations of the teachers under whom he has worked at the University of Minnesota, at Cornell, and during the past year at Lehigh University. He has given the impression of being an enthusiastic teacher and one who has the ability to adapt himself in a co-operative way in departmental activities.

J. Stanton McLaughlin received the A.B. degree from Oberlin College in 1921 and his A.M. in December, 1921. His rank in scholarship is evidenced by his election to Phi Beta Kappa. Since leaving Oberlin he has been Instructor in English at the University of Idaho from 1921 to 1925 and he has done graduate study at Columbia University and also some teaching there. Professor Wager's own knowledge of the man, together with the recommendations of men with whom he has worked in Columbia University serve as a basis for this appointment. Mr. McLaughlin brings excellent recommendations from the men with whom he has worked at the University of Idaho.

Mr. Paul N. MacEachron graduated from Grinnell College, with the degree of A.B., in 1911. He was a student in Oberlin in the Graduate School of Theology in 1915-16. He has attended summer school sessions at the University of Illinois, studying Athletics, in the years 1922 and 1925, and in the University of Iowa, studying Education, Psychology, and Athletics, in the years 1923 and 1924. As an undergraduate in Grinnell he took part in Football and Baseball for three years, serving as captain in Baseball in his senior year. After graduation he coached all the high school teams at Washington, Iowa, for three years. He was coach of the Academy Football and Baseball teams in Oberlin in 1915-16, and did a considerable amount of coaching in the six years he spent in China after leaving Oberlin. From 1922 to 1925, while Dean of Men and Advisor to Men in Grinnell he was coach of the Freshman Football and Baseball teams.

Mr. Paul B. Means holds an A.B. degree from Yale, in the Class of 1915. Immediately after graduation he spent one year, 1915-16, in the Graduate School of Theology in Oberlin. The next three years he was in Mesopotamia and India, in Y. M. C. A. work. After returning from India in 1919 he went to Oxford as Rhodes Scholar from Nebraska, and in 1922 took the degree of Litt.B., essentially equivalent to a Ph.D. Another year was spent at Marburg, Germany, studying with Otto and Jaensch. In 1923-24 he was teaching in Berea College, and since then has been preaching in Nebraska. In the course of his extensive graduate training Mr. Means has obtained a knowledge of Psychology and Philosophy, and of statistical methods as well, that will fit him admirably for the work he is to undertake in Oberlin.

The new appointments in the Graduate School of Theology are Professor Horton and Professor Buckler, whose academic records follow:

Mr. Horton graduated from Arlington High School, Arlington, Mass., 1912; A.B., Harvard, summa cum laude, 1917: "Fields of Distinction," Classics and Philosophy.

Greek and French Literature. Thesis: "Plato and the Holt-Freudian Ethics." B.D., Union Theological Seminary, New York City, 1920, summa cum laude; A.M., Columbia University, 1920; thesis: "The Present Situation in the Philosophy of History;" Traveling Fellow, Union Theological Seminary, 1920-22; studied at Paris, Strasburg, and Marburg; continued work at Columbia for the Ph.D., in Philosophy; S.T.M., Union Theological Seminary, summa cum laude, 1923; thesis: "The Origin and Psychological Function of Religion according to Pierre Janet." Mr. Horton is to receive his Ph.D. probably in February, from Columbia University; his thesis is a book based upon research work done during his stay in Paris, and the title is: "The Abbe Bautain: Pragmatist." Mr. Horton was ordained as a Baptist minister in May, 1919, at the First Baptist Church in Arlington, Mass., and since that time, with the exception of the two summers he was abroad, he has held summer pastorates. He has also done important teaching work at Union Theological Seminary, at Barnard College, and at Columbia University.

Mr. Buckler was a Scholar in Trinity Hall, Cambridge, from 1910 to 1913, receiving his B.A. in 1913 and his M. A. in 1920. He was Professor of History, Christian College, Madras, India, 1913-14; Professor of History, Muir Central College, Allahabad, 1914-16; Indian Army Reserve of Officers, service in India, Egypt, and Palestine, 1916-20; in 1920 he returned to the University of Cambridge as Lecturer to the Local Lectures' Syndicate, 1923, and Lecturer to the Special Board of History and Archaeology, covering a wide range of subjects; in 1921 he was made Allen Scholar in the University of Cambridge, and was elected Fellow of the Royal Historical Society, London; the Allen Scholarship was awarded for research; in 1922 he was elected a member of the Royal Asiatic Society of London, and appointed Lecturer to the Special Board of Oriental Studies in the University of Cambridge. In 1923 he was elected a member of the Society of History of the French Colonies; in 1924 was appointed a Supervisor of studies for the Ph.D. degree by the Board of Research Studies in the University of Cambridge; in 1925 he was appointed Lecturer to the Special Board of Economics and Politics in the University of Cambridge. He made extensive studies in Church History under Professor H. M. Gwatkin, Professor of Ecclesiastical History, Cambridge University, and was highly commended by him.

The new appointments of professorial rank in the Conservatory of Music include Miss Hart, Mr. Moyer, Mr. Lillich, and, for the second semester, Mr. Johnson.

Miss Hart is a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music with the class of 1906. After a year of teaching in Lake Erie College, Painesville, she spent two years abroad in Leipsic and Stuttgart as a pupil of Theodor Wihmayer, and was later a student under Raoul Pugno and Ernest Hutcheson, and a teacher who has won marked success in the music departments of Cornell College, Pomona College, and Rollins College, and with classes in Chicago and New York. Miss Hart comes with high commendation from those with whom she has previously worked.

Mr. Moyer has been a student under Alberto Jonas, Ernest von Dohnanyi and Busoni, and has proved himself a successful teacher in the music department of Bucknell University.

Mr. Lillich received the degrees of B.M. and B.S. at James Milliken University, and later studied for three years in the Institute of Musical Art in New York; he was there a pupil of Dethier and later, while organist at the First Congregational Church of Eau Claire, Wis., he studied with Palmer Christian. Mr. Lillich is an Associate of the American Guild of Organists. He comes to us from State College at Pullman, Washington, where he has been teaching Organ and Theory.

Mr. Reber Johnson begins his work as Professor of Violin and Ensemble with the second semester of the year 1925-26, and will bring added strength to the string department of the Conservatory. When about seven he was placed with David Mannes, and for years was in very close contact with that great teacher. Later he studied with Theodore Spiering. His reputation as a violinist of distinct ability has been established by his association with the New York Symphony Orchestra as Assistant Concertmaster and by his activities as teacher and soloist in New York musical circles. Mr. Johnson is to spend the first semester of the current year in foreign travel and study.

Two other new appointments should be mentioned here, which concern the entire general life of the institution: the new appointments of Dr. Bradshaw as College Physician and of Miss Ptolemy as Superintendent of our hospital.

Dr. Bradshaw returns to Oberlin with a medical training and experience that qualify him exceptionally well for this new position. He graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1923, spent a year as interne at Harper Hospital, Detroit, and there passed the Michigan and National Board Medical examinations. For a few months he was with the Detroit Edison Company as assistant surgeon in their medical department, and then was associated with his father in private practice in Pennsylvania. Since November, 1924, he has been with the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation at their stations in Alabama, Georgia, and Oberlin. He was a lieutenant in the army, for ten months in charge of the laboratory of Base Hospital 113 at Savanay, France, having previously had training at the Army Medical School and at the Rockefeller Institute. One summer he assisted Professor Savage in the School of Physical Education at Chautauqua. During three years of his work at Harvard he acted as Clinical Clerk in the Boston City Hospital. He has published a study of "Malaria in Daugherty County, Georgia." The position of College Physician carries with it the rank of professor.

Miss Ptolemy was for several years, after finishing her high school course, a student in the Conservatory of Music in Hamilton, Canada; she graduated from the Roosevelt Hospital Training School for Nurses in 1914, after which she had charge of a private floor in Roosevelt Hospital for two years; from 1916 to 1918 she was nursing overseas for the Anglo-French Committee, and in canteen work overseas from 1918 to 1920; she did private nursing from 1920 to 1922 in this country, and spent the year 1922-23 nursing in the mining camp of the Kennecott Copper Company in Alaska; for the two years 1923-25 she was Superintendent of Princeton Hospital, and comes to us from her position as Superintendent of the James A. Moore Memorial Convalescent Home.

It will be seen from the list as a whole, including Instructors, that the number of new appointments is unusually large.

Outside Work and Lectures

The facts concerning the outside work and lectures of the Faculty remain about what they have been for several years. Many members of the Faculty have represented the College during the year under review both officially and unofficially in wide and varied forms of activity outside the regular work of the College. These forms of activity illustrate the many-sided ways in which the officers and teachers of the College are rendering service outside the College, not only in academic but in unacademic lines. The list is too long to print, and it is difficult to get an exact record, since quite a number of the Faculty do not report their outside work at all. Even so, the list makes an impressive showing. Members of the Faculty have given addresses in many other colleges and universities, including some considerable courses of lectures. The College was also officially represented at a very wide range of educational and scholarly organizations, not less than sixty in all. And members of the Faculty were generously included in the list of officers and important committees on many of these organizations.

Several members of the Faculty shared, as usual, in the summer teaching of other colleges and universities.

The Conservatory Trio—Mrs. Bennett, Professor Kessler, and Professor Goerner—continued their fine concert work during the year.

V

ALUMNI AND FORMER STUDENTS

The New Alumni Secretary

The College is to be congratulated on the appointment, at mid-year, by the Alumni, of Mr. John G. Olmstead of the class of 1906 as Secretary of the Alumni Association. He is coöperating in most helpful fashion with the officers and teachers of the College and making his office effectively help various aspects of the college life.

The Work of the Alumni Association

At the special request of the President, the Secretary of the Alumni Association, Mr. Olmstead, has made a brief summary of the activities of the Association for the year, which may properly be presented at this point in the President's report. I am grateful to have this statement, and I am sure that it will be found an interesting record of this aspect of the college year, and illustrative of Mr. Olmstead's broad policies in the work of his office.

The most significant action of the Alumni Association during the year was the one taken at its annual meeting in June in appointing a committee to consider the subject of "How May the College Test Its Product?" This committee has been gathering material in various ways, most largely through its questionnaires to the graduates from 1899 to 1923. Its first meeting is occurring this month. The committee has the deepest interests of the college at heart and is hopeful that its studies will make a real contribution to this subject.

A new Song Book, containing sixty-six songs, among them a number of new ones, was compiled by a committee of which Professor Heacox was chairman. This book was published in May and something over fourteen hundred copies have been sold.

For the first half of the year the Association was without an Alumni Secretary. During this period the work was ably conducted by Dr. Bohn, Mr. Wirkler, and Professor Mack.

The Alumni Magazine has been enlarged and improved. If we could only add a thousand more subscribers to our list and a thousand to the Association membership, our financial problem would be considerably easier. We did, however, because of the smaller salary expense, close the year without a deficit. The increased expense of the coming year will necessitate increased income.

The local chapters have been passing through a period of inactivity following the big endowment drive, and it is part of the program of the coming year to revive interest and action on the part of these chapters.

Well-attended Home-comings were held in the fall and winter and an unusually large number of alumni were back for Commencement. At that time the Alumni Association helped promote the affairs in special honor of Professor John Fisher Peck and raised over $1,200 on a $5,000 scholarship to be named for Mr. Peck.

Another Gray Scholar has been appointed this fall. This is the fourth one and makes one in each class although Mr. Hunhche, the Junior representative, is absent this semester.

Much of my time is necessarily given to editing the Alumni Magazine and to routine correspondence. I am trying, however, to acquaint myself with the faculty members and the work of the various departments and the problems which the administrative officers face. I am also trying to keep in touch with the alumni and to learn their views on college matters.

It is my policy to minimize rather than magnify any differences that may arise between alumni and college and to clarify any situation that may arise with as little publicity as possible. While the pages of the Alumni Magazine are always open to a free expression by the alumni, I do not intend to use the editorial column for attack, if there is any other method of correcting an unsatisfactory condition.

Necrology

The necrological report of the Alumni for the year under review, as submitted by the Secretary of the College, gives biographical sketches of all Alumni whose deaths have been reported to the Secretary's office during the year from October 1, 1924, to October 1, 1925. The list includes 83 names, as against 58 the previous year. The full report is printed in pamphlet form and distributed directly to the Alumni in December or January. The Secretary's brief statistical study of the necrological record, and the list of Alumni who died during the year, should find place here.

In the list of 83 Alumni whose deaths have been reported during the year there were 49 men and 34 women. The average age of the men at the time of death was 66.7 years and of the women 62.5 years; the total average age of the 83 Alumni in the group was 64.9 years.

The oldest Alumnus included in the necrology is Mrs. Rosanna Baldwin Walker of the class of 1855, who died August 5, 1924, at the age of 93 years 5 months and 1 day. At the time of her death she was the oldest graduate of the College in point of years.

Miss Winona Esther Auten of the class of 1925 was the youngest member of the group, her age at death being 22 years and 27 days.

The earliest living graduates of the College are Mrs. Mary Hall Johnson of the class of 1854 and Mrs. Margaret Reid Alsworth of the class of 1856. Mrs. Johnson was 93 years of age June 11, 1925.

Mrs. Johnson is also the oldest surviving graduate, followed closely by Mr. Edwin Booth of the class of 1862 and Mr. George W. Andrews of the class of 1858.

VI

STUDENTS

The aim of this section of the annual report is to bring under review from year to year the various aspects of the student life, to make sure that there is a wholesome many-sided life for the student, while his main business of study is given the first place.

Enrolment

The enrolment figures for the year under review and for the beginning of the current year are fully given in the review of the Secretary's report and need not be repeated here. The most interesting single facts about the enrolment are those that concern the number of men. The Secretary reports the largest enrolment of men since the discontinuance of the Academy. The percentage of men in the whole institution, too, was higher than in any year for twenty-seven years. The number of men in the College of Arts and Sciences is much larger than for any year in the history of the College. The percentage of men also in the College of Arts and Sciences was the largest for twenty-three years. These facts should be borne in mind when we are trying to estimate the significance of a loss in the number of men in the present Freshman class as compared with the Freshman class of the year under review.

Health and Physical Education

The general health of the students, as the Deans have indicated, has been good. Both Dr. Morrison and Dr. Moulton are directly and generously helping at this point. The Browning infirmary, too, rendered a fine service for the year. The daily health report for the women is also a very valuable aid. With the coming of the new hospital and the College Physician for the present year, this policy of the daily health report is to be extended to the men. Dr. Bradshaw's summary report of the clinic for September 16 to October 31 of the current year, shows an astonishing number of students taking advantage of the clinic at the new hospital—a total of 859 calls. It ought to make in time a marked difference in the health of the students.

The general health record comes to us this year through the Chairman of the Committee on Health and Hospitals, Dr. W. R. Morrison:

The health of the student body during the past year was very good. While we do not have accurate statistics as to the exact number of cases of illness, we have reason to believe that the number was considerably below the average of previous years. The number of patients treated at Browning House was 282. The number of boys treated at the Sherrill home was about 25.

On account of the prevalence of smallpox in Ohio an effort was made to immunize all students who had not been vaccinated. Two clinics were held and about 250 students vaccinated.

In looking for a cause for the excellent condition of health of the students, I believe much credit should be given to the vigilance and care given to mild cases of illness and the increasing effort on the part of the College to isolate the contagious cases in the early stages of the disease. Without doubt other important factors were the favorable weather and an increased health intelligence on the part of the students, resulting from the emphasis being placed on health education in the high schools as well as in our own college.

The members of the Committee gave considerable time last year to the working out of new plans for our health work in the future, and as Chairman I take great pleasure in reporting that we are now ready to go ahead with a much more extensive program than has ever been possible in the past. With the completion of Allen Hospital we now have a physical plant consisting of a twenty-five bed hospital, an infirmary for girls, and two contagious houses. With these facilities and the appointment of a College Physician I believe the College will be able to give as efficient service to our sick students as any college in the country. Each student is charged a ten dollar health fee each year, for which he receives, in service, free dispensary service and ten days' hospital service. The practice of the College Physician is limited to the dispensary. When the illness of the student is such as requires treatment in his room or in the hospital, he must call a town physician. All cases of illness in boarding houses where three or more students are living are reported to the College Physician every morning. A nurse from the Physician's office calls on the students needing attention and makes the arrangements necessary for taking care of the cases.

The big function of a student health service should be preventive and educational in nature. Our plans, therefore, should include, in addition to the measures mentioned above, provision for a broad program of education and measures for keeping the students well. This means that in addition to carrying out special programs to that end we should use the equipment and organizations already functioning along that line in the College. I refer now to the athletic fields, the gymnasiums, the two departments of Physical Education, the recreational activities, etc. It seems to me that all of these activities could be organized to advantage into one department.

There has been only one death in the student body during the year under review, that of Miss Winona Auten of the class of 1925, of whom the Dean of College Women writes:

Miss Auten was an able student and for nearly four years had maintained a high academic standing at the same time that she was doing some outside work, carrying herself always with cheerfulness and serenity under a physical handicap that would have deterred a less ambitious person from undertaking a college course. She was taken sick during the Christmas holidays and from that time until her death she bore her sufferings with patience and rare courage. Her death was mourned by a large group of her classmates.

On the recommendation of the General Faculty, the Trustees voted her graduation with her class.

One other student death perhaps ought to be recorded here, that of Mr. J. E. Knatz of Fort Wayne, Indiana, of the class of 1927, who died at his home on September 27, 1925, of malarial typhoid. The necrological report of Alumni is made to cover the year from October 1 to October 1, and it is perhaps better in the case of deaths among students that the usage here should correspond with that in the necrology. On account of his illness, Mr. Knatz had not returned to college this fall. He had won the confidence and admiration of his fellow students, maintaining in all his life and work the highest Christian ideals.

Scholarship

The reports of both the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and the Secretary of the College show gains in our scholarship records. Professor Hartson of the department of Psychology is continuing to give special study to "student personnel work," as is shown in the concluding sections of the report of the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. During the year under review particular attention has been given by Professor Hartson to "Student Rating Scales," and Dr. Walter V. Bingham, editor of the Journal of Personnel Research has expressed his judgment that the Oberlin Rating Scales are the best yet devised. These important scales should help to more accurate testing of scholarship.

Another point has come out in Professor Hartson's comparative testing of different institutions from the point of view of scholarship:

Colleges which, like Oberlin, select students on the basis of high scholastic records and favorable personal recommendations, are apparently getting a more select group, from the viewpoint of intelligence test scores. In the Army Alpha Test 80% of the Oberlin Freshmen made a better score than the average state university man. In the Iowa Comprehension Test 75% of the Oberlin Freshmen made a better score than the average Iowa Freshman.

If the process of selection is carried still further, it seems clear that a still higher grade of scholarship may be achieved in a given institution. We have pretty plainly not yet reached our own normal limit of high scholarship along this line.

Conduct

As already reported, there were very few serious cases of discipline during the year under review. But in general the Deans all bear witness again to what seems to them the prevalence of generally wholesome moral conditions in the College, and the maintenance of a fine and growing spirit of coöperation among the students themselves and between students and Faculty. The large number of students sharing in the intramural sports also helps, it is believed, to wholesome conditions for living. And Professor Savage says there can be no question that a larger proportion of our men than ever before participated in and enjoyed the benefits of intramural sports. A similar statement probably can be made also for the women.

Student Aid

It is gratifying to be able to call attention to the fact that scholarship loan funds have for the first time gone beyond, and well beyond, a half million dollars. Scholarship and loan funds now amount to $546,822.23, making a gain for the year under review of $62,972.42. The increasing cost of college education naturally calls for increasing beneficiary aid.

Outside Activities

As has often been said in this report, the struggle to maintain a proper balance for all students between the student's primary work of study and the host of "outside activities," is a ceaseless one and requires perpetual vigilance on the part of both Faculty and students. Some further gains have been made during the year in the direction of simpler and less expensive social affairs. The President calls attention once more to the number of departmental and other Clubs which include in their membership both Faculty and students. These should help to increasing significant intellectual fellowship between students and teachers, and help also to keep the outside activities within reason. There is no doubt about the valuable service which these organizations have to render for they are widely scattered through the student body and are not made to demand an unreasonable proportion of any student's time.

The Christian Associations

The reports seem clearly to indicate that the two Christian Associations have had a year of thoughtful work and have rendered valuable service. The work of the Young Men's Christian Association has been chiefly along the line of their departmental activities: Conferences, Intercollegiate, Church Relations, Membership, Books, Deputations, New Students, the Hi-Y, Meetings, Publicity, Social, Foreign Students, Music, Employment, Children's Home, and New Cabinet. The Secretary, Mr. Charles G. Stewart, makes a rapid review in his report of the activities along the line of these different departments. The purpose of the Intercollegiate Department is to establish and maintain amicable relations with other schools through friendly contact with visiting teams and students. There has been increasing coöperation on the part of the Association with the churches of the community, membership has grown through voluntary joining without special pressure, the Hi-Y Club in the Oberlin high school was a strong and active organization under the leadership of the Hi-Y chairman for the year under review. The Association believe that they have had an unusually strong series of Sunday evening meetings. Both Associations feel the need of a more careful study of the problem of employment for students needing help. The General Secretary of the Association, in his own thought of the work of the Association, is emphasizing personal relationships with a large number of students, and he hopes to accomplish more in this particular phase of the work of the Association.

The report of the Young Women's Christian Association is made by the General Secretary, Mrs. Althea R. Woodruff, who thus summarizes the emphases for the year:

World Fellowship, Race Relationships, Coöperation between Industrial and College Women, Bible Study, and Relationships between Men and Women were the emphases made by the Geneva conference, August, 1924, and suggested as those to be followed by local Associations during the year 1924-25. Coupled with this was the statement, "We unite in the determination to live unreservedly Jesus' law of love in every relationship and so to know God," made at the New York convention May, 1924, by the Student Assembly, by which we were asked to test our method of attack on all these problems. As an experiment, our Association combined the first two emphases—World Fellowship and Race Relations under one heading. Our new idea was to make the problem less acute by including members of all races instead of centering on one and by trying a year with friendliness and understanding as the goal instead of discussion of race problems. To this end, a group of sixteen girls, eight white American, four colored and four foreign-born have met regularly as a fellowship group and through them a larger group of women have been reached in an open invitation to several social afternoons.

Mrs. Woodruff gives space in her report to this double problem of World Fellowship and Race Relationships, because she feels that "nothing is more insistently emphasized by the National Y. W. C. A. than the necessity of a deep understanding between students round the world regardless of creed, race, and country, if world peace is ever to come." The Secretary emphasizes also the need for bringing the students more directly to the Bible itself for individual study. She notes a somewhat new policy as to the Sunday evening meetings:

With the exception of one meeting in the fall, one in the winter, and one combination meeting with the men in the spring, there has been no speaker at a Sunday meeting from outside of Oberlin. This has been rather a new policy for our meetings committee, and it has been a delight to re-discover, as it were, the contributions our own Faculty have had to give. The coöperation of the Faculty with music, addresses, advice, class instruction which has been so ungrudgingly given, is one of the outstanding features of the year. Few Associations can equal it. I am convinced none can surpass it.

The Secretary also expresses the satisfaction she feels in the improvements made in the headquarters building.

Oberlin-Shansi Memorial Association

The Executive Secretary of the Oberlin-Shansi Memorial Association, Mr. Bohn, submits the following report.

The Oberlin-Shansi Memorial Association, 1924-1925

The past year has been noteworthy in the development of the Shansi Memorial Schools, not only because, fortunately, the province has been one of the least disturbed of all the provinces of China in the recent political upheaval, but because during the year certain advanced steps have been taken by these institutions. For example, the Schools have complied with the conditions of formal registration with the Chinese Government, a procedure which not only certifies to the standardization of the work but assures the graduates of our institution the same rights and privileges in appointment to Government office, and of certain prerogatives of citizenship, that graduates of Government Schools have. This is a noteworthy step, and while it involves a guarantee on the part of our Schools that religious exercises shall be entirely voluntary, the personnel of our staff is quite unanimous in approval of the step and in their feeling that there are no religious or other interests jeopardized by it.

During this year, also, a definite advanced step has been taken toward co-education, consistent with the history of the mother school in America. The Precious Dew Memorial School and the Shansi Memorial School have been combined on a co-educational basis, and, beginning with the Fall of 1925, girl day pupils will be received in the higher primary school. China is moving rapidly in the matter of educational methods and ideals, and it is quite possible that co-education may be wide-spread within a very few years.

This year has seen our schools in the best housing they have ever had, for now there are three modern buildings: the Hawley Building, the Adelaide Hemingway Memorial Dormitory, and Fairfield Hall. While these buildings have done much to improve the general situation on the campus, there is still most urgent need for other modern buildings, and modern equipment for the various departments.

During the year, Francis Hutchins, Oberlin's representative in 1922-24, returned to Oberlin, and, as a student on the Oberlin campus, did much to promote the interest in the work of the Association. His place has now been taken here in Oberlin by Mr. Samuel Wilson, who is studying in the Graduate School of Theology after his term of service at Taiku. The Association is fortunate, also, in having in this country for the year 1925-26, Reverend Wynn C. Fairfield, who has been so long active as Vice President of our schools, and who has made such a large contribution toward their development. The Association has taken another forward step in the appointment of Mr. Raymond Moyer who having already had one term of service at Shansi, will return in the Fall of 1927 to teach Scientific Agriculture. In the meantime, for the years 1925-1927, he is the holder of a fellowship from the Association of one thousand dollars per annum, to aid him in the pursuit of his graduate study in preparation for his teaching.

Miss Lan Hua Liu, a graduate of our own Schools, a trained teacher, who received her degree from Oberlin College in 1925, is already under appointment to go out in the Fall of 1926, after graduate study at Columbia, as a teacher in the Girls' School at Taiku. This is a noteworthy appointment, as Miss Liu will be the first woman to represent the Association in the Shansi Schools. Her appointment is a pecularly significant one because she is herself a native of Shansi, partly trained there, and in thorough accord with its ideals.

The Annual Meeting of the Association was held February 27th, 1925, in Finney Memorial Chapel. In addition to the usual program, Mrs. Lydia Lord Davis, who had been out in China again the previous year, brought the greetings of the Shansi Memorial Schools to our Oberlin student body. The Shansi address was given by Reverend Watts O. Pye, of the Theological class of 1907, of Fenchow, China. At this meeting, the announcement was made of the appointment of Mr. Clarmont P. Doane as the Oberlin representative in Shansi for 1925-27. Mr. Doane is now on the field in Taiku.

It is entirely appropriate that this report should recognize the very efficient service of the Student Shansi Committee, which has done so much during the past year, as heretofore, in creating interest in the Shansi enterprise in the student body and among the alumni. The chairman of this Committee the past year was Mr. Frank T. deVyver.

Mr. H. H. Kung continues to act as Principal of our Shansi Schools in spite of the far-reaching demands upon his time and interest, the calls to important government positions, and other responsibilities which press upon him. His marked gifts of leadership and his unimpeachable integrity mark him as an outstanding citizen of the Chinese Republic, whose name lends great prestige to our Schools. It is earnestly hoped that Mr. Kung may be in Oberlin next Commencement, at the twentieth anniversary of his graduation, which occurs at that time.

The Treasurer's report indicates that the Oberlin student body, the faculty, the alumni, and friends are continuing their support of this work. The Student Chest again contributed five thousand dollars ($5,000.00); the alumni $2,879.75; other gifts and income from endowment made up a total current income of $14,736.29.

Lectures, Concerts, and Other Entertainments

Since the full list of lectures, concerts, and other entertainments is published regularly in the annual catalogue for the year, to avoid duplication in the printed material of the College, the list is not repeated at this point. These entertainments deserve mention, however, as a broadening and enriching factor in the life of the students.

VII

RELATION TO OTHER EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

Educational and Civic Meetings

The College has continued its participation, through its Trustees, officers, teachers, and alumni, in a very long list of the educational and civic associations with which it is most naturally connected. Since the list of these organizations does not vary greatly from year to year, it seems not necessary that they should be repeated here.

Colleges, Theological Seminaries, and Universities

The College was also represented at various college, theological seminary, and university functions of note, including the presidential inaugurations at Western Reserve University, the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Omaha, Nebraska, Bangor Theological Seminary, DePauw University, Yankton College, and Reed College; the one hundredth anniversaries of Franklin Institute, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and Pittsburgh Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church of North America; the seventy-fifth anniversaries of Rochester Theological Seminary, Hiram College and Heidelberg University; the fiftieth anniversaries of George Peabody College for Teachers, Wellesley College, and Park College; the dedications of the new Dormitory of Chicago Theological Seminary, the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children, at Indianapolis, of Indiana University, the Memorial Library of the University of Delaware, and the new Laboratory of the Marine Biological Laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass.; and the opening of the School of Citizenship and Public Affairs of Syracuse University. The College was also represented at the opening of the new main building of the Cleveland Public Library.

VIII

THE RELATION OF THE COLLEGE TO ITS VICINAGE

Nothing has done more during the year under review to draw community and college together in a great unified interest than the gradual completion, equipment and furnishing of the new Allen Hospital. Perhaps the President cannot better express his own sense of the large significance of the coming of the new hospital than by putting here his acceptance of the hospital building and equipment at the exercises of dedication on November 6.

On behalf of the Board of Trustees and of the Faculty of Oberlin College—and hardly less for all its students and alumni present and prospective, and for the citizens of Oberlin—I now accept at the hands of the donors for the uses of the College this noble building and its ideal equipment, dedicated to the thoughtful and tender ministry to human needs. This I do in memory of strong and beautiful lives—in memory of Dudley Allen, M.D., and Dudley Peter Allen, M.D., whose gifts of service and funds, increased by friends, made possible the erection of this building; and in memory of Myrtle Grace Vial of the Class of 1908, whose patient, lovely and gracious spirit is fittingly embodied in the beautiful equipment and furnishings of this hospital, provided for the use of future generations of students in Oberlin College, and for the citizens of the community.

I hereby publicly record our deep gratitude to the generous Donors of the hospital and its equipment, and rejoice with them in the perfection with which the purposes of the finished building have been accomplished. Mr. Gilbert, the architect of the building, himself writes: "I am very proud of the Allen Hospital. I believe it will rank with the other buildings of Oberlin College as an attractive and harmonious element in the general design. I hope and believe it will have all of the practical efficiency which the hospital authorities desire, and when the trees and shrubbery are planted and the grounds finally put in condition, I believe that the beauty of the place will have a beneficial effect upon the patients and conduce to their happiness while there and more prompt recovery. I have long believed that an attractive environment is a great assistance toward good health."

And as President of the College, I hereby undertake for myself and my colleagues in the Trustees and the Faculty, so far as in me lies, to hold this building and its equipment true to the purposes for which they have been given, that so long as they shall last they may perpetuate and develop, among all to whom they here minister, health of body and mind. And may the blessing of God abide upon all the work that shall here be undertaken.

Another college interest that has appealed strongly to the town is the new Stadium, the story of which Professor Savage tells in his report as Director of Athletics. Town as well as College contributed generously to the stadium.

IX

GAINS

The year under review has been a very unusual year, including many notable gains. The outstanding gains of the year may perhaps be said to include particularly strong new appointments of professorial rank in all three of the departments of the College; fifteen well deserved promotions of professorial rank in the Faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences; the fact that of the active teaching Faculty of one hundred and twenty-two, for the year under review, fifty-six were of the rank of full professor,—an unusual proportion. The financial gains of the year were particularly encouraging. Steps were taken during the year for the beginning of the distribution of the Hall estate. Pledges to the Endowment and Building Fund were increased to $3,038,886.03 from 8,632 subscribers. Payments to the Endowment and Building Fund during the year amounted to $400,897.32. The total money gifts of the year, including Endowment and Building Funds and current gifts and gifts to capital, amounted to $559,661.69.

The total assets of the College, exclusive of the Hall estate, grew to $7,449,396.52,—a very considerable advance. Debts and “Advances” were cleared up during the year to the amount of $155,671.16. The budget for the current year was increased by more than $100,000 over the year under review. Besides these important financial gains, other gains to be noted are the erection of the beautiful Allen Hospital; the superb equipment and furnishings of the Hospital, provided by the family of Miss Grace Vial of the class of 1908; and the erection of the west section of a new Stadium. Much progress has been made on the student health program. Important changes have been made by the Conservatory of Music in admission requirements and the length of the classroom period. The number of men in the College of Arts and Sciences was much larger than for any year in the history of the College. The success with which Oberlin students are held beyond the Freshman year has also been pointed out. Particularly valuable studies were conducted by the department of Psychology in personnel research.

NEEDS

Even with the beginning of the distribution of the Hall estate in the year 1925-26, the outstanding need of the College is the clearing up of all debts and advances at the earliest possible date. This alone will require about two years. The report of the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences brings together a considerable number of important needs suggested by the Faculty, including salary increases, and these cannot be ignored. But the pressure for new buildings is sure to be very urgent in the years just ahead, and there should be much early study of the plans for these new buildings. The most pressing building needs—long deferred—may perhaps be said to be those already listed in this report by the Assistant to the President: Central Recitation building, Organ building, halls of residence for men, halls of residence for women, addition to the Library, Theological group, Physics building, other Science buildings, women's gymnasium, men's gymnasium, women's building, college Inn, including alumni rooms and Faculty Club. This list at once suggests how large a sum is needed to meet immediate building needs—a larger sum than the income from the Hall estate alone could meet within any reasonable period. But we cannot be grateful enough for Mr. Hall's great gift, the distribution of which to his beneficiaries has already begun. The situation calls both for the deep gratitude and for the honest care which so great a trust demands.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY CHURCHILL KING.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER

TREASURER'S STATEMENT

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF OBERLIN COLLEGE:

I have the honor to present herewith the annual report of the Treasurer for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1925.

The total of funds sharing in general investments for the full year amounted to $4,262,671.00. Income from general investments was received during the year as follows:

From interest on investments .....	$211,661.61
From interest, other sources .....	15,726.49
From real estate rents .....	22,218.06
From West Virginia oil lands .....	248.63
	$249,854.79

After allowing $4,973.38 to funds that were received during the year, $244,446.90 was distributed at the rate of 5½ per cent to the funds sharing in general investments, and the remainder, $10,434.51, was credited to Profit and Loss account for General Investments.

The operations for the year resulted in a net surplus of $114,784.77, as is shown by the following table:

INCOME AND EXPENSE BY DEPARTMENTS

	Income	Expense	Surplus	Deficit
General . . . . .	$428,203.43	$251,073.28	$172,416.75	$

	$114,784.77		$114,784.77
Surplus . . . . .	$114,784.77		$114,784.77

REPORT OF THE TREASURER

The surplus for the year, $114,784.77, was used as follows:

(1) To pay all accumulated deficits—
General . . . . .	$ 8,206.62
Academy . . . . .	22,331.49
College . . . . .	37,678.19
Graduate School of Theology . . . . .	2,933.38
		$71,149.68
(2) To charge off Advances to—
Hotel furniture . . . . .	$ 4,923.49
General plan buildings and grounds . . . . .	8,924.80
Special heating equipment . . . . .	4,599.00
Herbarium . . . . .	271.84
Administration Building site . . . . .	5,900.00
Heating Plant construction (part). . . . .	19,015.96
		43,635.09
		$114,784.77

In addition to the above advances, we have been able to charge off from income of boarding halls and dormitories the following:

Fairchild House . . . . .	$ 4,225.53
Johnson House (part) . . . . .	1,000.00
Keep Cottage (part) . . . . .	4,111.18
Lord Cottage . . . . .	3,307.81
Men's Building (part) . . . . .	2,378.02
Shurtleff Cottage . . . . .	4,286.09
		$ 19,308.63

During the year the Intercollegiate Athletics Account has reduced the advances to the Athletic Field by the payment of $14,380.36, leaving a balance of $2,300.00

The cost of the Hospital site, $7,197.40, was charged to gifts received through the Endowment and Building Fund for the Hospital.

The total of these items which have been heretofore carried in our accounts as debts or advances amounts to $155,671.16.

The account, Profit and Loss for General Investments, showed a credit balance at the beginning of the year of $1,285.95. Securities have been sold and losses have been charged off to the extent of $55,993.75. Profits on other transactions have amounted to $25,669.42. The undivided income from General Investments, $10,434.51, has been credited to this account. At the end of the year the balance shows losses not provided for amounting to $18,603.87.

During the year 1924-25 additional subscriptions to the Endowment and Building Fund have been received from 74 different sources with cash or pledges in the amount of $55,779.50. To this amount we may properly add the subscriptions to the Stadium, amounting to $21,762.00; the gift of the Carnegie Corporation of $50,000.00 for Library endowment; the proposal of friends to equip the Allen Hospital, and the bequest of Mr. E. A. West of Chicago, amounting to $59,124.51. These subscriptions and gifts bring the total of the Endowment and Building Fund pledges (including the results of solicitation after the campaign proper had closed) to $3,038,886.03.

REPORT OF THE AUDITING COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR ENDING AUGUST 31, 1925

To the President and Board of Trustees of Oberlin College:

On November 12, 1925, your committee examined in detail all the securities owned by the College, as kept in the vaults of The Cleveland Trust Company under the control of the Treasurer of the College and officers of the Trust Company, and all were found to correspond exactly with the books of the College Treasurer as audited by the certified accountant.

All bonds were verified by number and par value and attached coupons, and all stock certificates by number and par value, and all notes and mortgages by amount, interest payments, and insurance policies. All payments on principal were verified from the ledgers of the Trust Company.

The bonds of the Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer we find to be in the custody of the President of the College as required by the regulations of the Trustees of the College and the current premium has been paid.

We include in our report the official certified statement of the Public Accounting Department of The Cleveland Trust Company, employed by us as heretofore to make the annual detail audit of the College Treasurer's books and vouchers in the Oberlin office.

Mr. Kirshner, Mr. Henderson and Mr. Thomsen, of the Committee, were unable to be present for our examination, and by vote of the Prudential Committee the chairman was authorized to secure some other member of the Board of Trustees to act in their place, and Mr. Siddall was present at both our morning and afternoon meetings, and the work was completed in the one business day.

(Signed) IRVING W. METCALF, Chairman.
A. H. NOAH.
G. B. SIDDALL.

November 13, 1925.

THE CLEVELAND TRUST COMPANY

Public Accounting Department

Cleveland, O., November 9, 1925.

Mr. Irving W. Metcalf, Chairman
 Audit Committee, Oberlin College
 Oberlin, Ohio

Dear Sir:—Complying with your request we have made an examination of Books of Accounts and record in the office of the Treasurer of Oberlin College pertaining to the year ended August 31, 1925, as follows:—

Trial Balance as of August 31, 1925, was checked to the ledger and all balances found to be listed in accordance therewith.

Loans and Investments, $3,717,392.10. The investment record cards in the Treasurer's office were checked with list of securities as prepared by the Treasurer and found to agree, summary of which follows:

Notes and Mortgages .....	$2,367,277.19
Bonds . . . . .	807,874.95
Stocks . . . . .	522,852.05
Collateral Notes .....	19,387.91
	$3,717,392.10

This total is carried on the General Ledger, classified as to source of investment, as follows:

General Investments .....	$3,612,392.49
Library . . . . .	3,000.00
Cutler Fellowship .....	2,252.55
James K. Newton.....	1,000.00
James H. Beacom.....	56,548.74
M. W. Beacom.....	42,198.32
	$3,717,392.10

Real Estate, $279,488.11.

General Houses and Lands, $260,991.18.

Detail list of various properties as prepared by the Treasurer aggregating $540,479.29 is in agreement with Ledger Accounts.

Notes Receivable, $2,956.90. Notes representing this amount were examined by us.

Cash in hands of Trustee for Investment, $76,728.53. Balance as shown was verified by direct communication with The Cleveland Trust Company, Trustee.

Student Loan Fund Notes, $57,643.10. All notes on file were examined and were found to support the loan fund balances in the general ledger, with the exception of those notes paid subsequent to August 31, 1925, for which supporting entries had been made on records.

Cash on hand and in Banks is made up as follows:
On hand .....$ 6,107.11

In Bank and in Transit:—

The Cleveland Trust Co.....	$13,609.89
The National Park Bank.....	10,440.46
The Oberlin Savings Bank Co.....	4,612.97
The Peoples Banking Co.....	3,559.34
	32,222.66
Total . . . . .	$38,329.77
Less Principal Cash.....	1,505.24
	$36,824.53

Bank accounts were reconciled as at August 31, 1925, and the various bank balances verified by certificates from depositories.

Cash on hand was verified by actual count at the close of business November 4, 1925.

Disbursement checks were found to be properly signed and endorsed and in agreement with entries on check register except checks outstanding August 31, 1925.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) J. LYMAN BRYAN,
Manager.
